The Queen Has a Royal Welcome

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Queen Elizabeth 2 has completed her much-delayed maiden voyage. And everybody seems to agree—she's a queen.

The new Cunard liner sailed into a royal welcome at New York Wednesday after a four-day, 16-hour and 39-minute Atlantic crossing from Southampton, England.

Everybody from the crew to a fare-paying mouse seemed to agree it was a lovely, smooth crossing with no sign of the turbine vibration that knocked the QE2 out of action for weeks after her shakedown cruise.

The mouse, "Pepsi," belonged to 8-year-old Laurel Bowden, who paid $2.40 so she could bring him across with her parents.

"Pepsi wasn't frightened at all," said Laurel. "She was very comfortable."

And New York gave the QE2, named after Britain's reigning monarch, a greeting befitting her royal status.

Two water-spraying fireboats flanked the five-block-long liner as she proudly sailed into harbor past the lower New York skyline. Hundreds of other ships, most of them blowing their whistles, shuttled along the $72 million "floating hotel."

When it passed grandly under the Verazano Bridge spanning the Narrows between Brooklyn and Staten Island two painters perched hundreds of feet above the water on the bridge waved their brushes in welcome for the day's most unusual salute.

Most New Yorkers paid their respects in a more normal way. They lined the piers and riverside to watch the QE2 sail up the Hudson River and dock at the foot of West 52nd Street.

While the original Queen featured a 1930's grande dame atmosphere, the QE2 is along the line of a more current British product—the Beatles. With gleaming expanses of glass and steel, the twang of new queen.

rock groups echoes from the loudspeakers instead of the string quartet often featured by the earlier Queens.

The 963-foot ship's skipper, Capt. William Warwick, called the QE2 "perfect" and said her crew was "tops."

Mayor John Lindsay boarded the ship to officially extend her the city's welcome. He proclaimed Wednesday "Queen Elizabeth 2 Day" to "pay homage to its (New York's) new queen."

45 Drug Arrests at Bard

By TIM SCHUSTER
and
HUGH REYNOLDS

RED HOOK

A large force of law enforcement officials armed with search warrants descended on Bard College in the pre-dawn hours this morning and arrested 45 students on illegal possession and selling of narcotics.

Reaction of those students who were not arrested ranged from "rage" to "they can't blame the police, they were just doing their job."

80 in Raiding Party

The raiding party, comprised of 45 New York State Troopers from Riverhead, Claverack and Rhinebeck, and 35 Dutchess County sheriff's deputies, hit Ward Manor, the college's main dormitory at 4:30 a. m. today.

The State Police, lead by Capt. Richard Boland, BCI Troop K, arrested a total of 15 persons, including two women. They are seeking three more persons on warrants. Thirteen of those arrested were charged with possession and two were charged with selling marijuana, a felony. Arrested for selling were John Jensen, 20, of Green Farm Court and Brett Cody, 21, of Grove Hill Avenue, Newton, Mass. Bail was set at $7,500.

The sheriff's force, led by Sheriff Lawrence B. Quinlan, arrested 30 persons, 24 men and six women. Donald Fagan, 21, of 1066 Park Lane, Middletown, O., was charged with the sale of a dangerous drug. Bail was set at $5,000.

Describes Scene

John Winter, a resident of Manor Hall who was not arrested described the scene to a Freeman reporter. "I woke up at 4:30 with someone shaking me and looked out the window. There were dozens of cars parked outside and the police were walking down the halls looking into everyone's room. Some of the kids took off but most just milled around and watched."

Capt. Boland told The Freeman that the raiding party found quantities of hashish, marijuana and barbituates.

"There was no resisting of arrest and everything went quite smoothly," Boland said.

Boland revealed that undercover agents had played a large role in the arrests. "We've had some men at Bard for several weeks," Boland said, "as has the sheriff's department. These men were able to put the finger on sellers and were able to furnish evidence for individual warrants."

Dutchess County District Attorney Albert M. Rosenblatt and Assistant District Attorney Dennis McClure were credited with coordinating the raid.

The Freeman, in interviewing students at the scene who had not been arrested, received mixed reactions. The editor of the Bard Observer, a weekly publication by the students, said the student reaction (to the raid) was "rage." When asked what his editorial position would be in his newspaper, he answered, "our edition comes out tonight, and it's too late to get this in."

Another student mentioned a "massive raid" on Bard College on April 6, 1968, which he said

Storms of Protest Over Proposal To Ship Deadly Gas by Railroad

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Pentagon plans to ship huge quantities of deadly nerve gas cross country by railroad beginning next week. An official of one town along the route called the idea "too grisly to think about."

The Pentagon revealed its tentative plan Wednesday after Rep. Richard McCarthy, D-N.Y., disclosed it to newsmen. The purpose of the shipping operation, which McCarthy said will involve 20 trains of 45 to 60 cars each, is to bring the gas to Earle, N.J. for eventual disposal at sea.

At the same time the Transportation Department revealed there have been three spillages of poison gas—two of them from railroad trains—within the past year. The leakages, from which no injuries resulted, happened twice at Kansas City and once at St. Louis.

Maj. Gen. Weldell Coats, Army chief of information, said the plan, if it wins final approval by the Pentagon, will begin one week from Friday and continue until August. He said over the period 27,000 tons of gas will be moved from the Rocky Mountain Arsenal near Denver and the Edgewood Arsenal in Maryland.

About half of the 27,000 tons will consist of Air Force bombs containing liquid nerve gas which vaporizes in the air, attacks the central nervous system and causes eventual death or maiming. The bombs are left from World War II and are considered outmoded.

Coats said no exact route has been picked since the plan is still tentative. But McCarthy said it appeared the trains would have to pass through Indianapolis, Ind., and Elizabeth, N. J., as well as "a number of other communities."

Michael A. McGuire, president of the Elizabeth City council, said the possibility of an accidental leakage in a populated area is "too grisly to think about." He said he would telephone New Jersey's congressional delegation "first thing in the morning."

The Pentagon said the gas tanks would be packed in vermiculite, a mineral sometimes used as insulation, which could absorb the liquid if it leaked. It said it has conducted smaller but similar shipments 12 times in recent years.

The trains, it said, would move non-stop except for a two-hour period each 24 hours when they would be halted for a safety check. In addition the trains would be staffed by a safety team and guards, it said.

24-Hour Truce May 30 To Honor Buddha's Birth

SAIGON (UPI)—President Nguyen Van Thieu's office announced tonight that South Vietnamese armed forces will observe a 24-hour truce May 30 in honor of the anniversary of Buddha's birth. A U.S. command spokesman said American forces would join in the ceasefire.

The announcement came less than 24 hours after a series of Viet Cong terrorist attacks on Saigon's streets in an offensive that coincided with the 16th session of the Vietnam peace talks in Paris.

At least five persons died and 43 others suffered wounds in the Saigon terror spree. The 8:15 a.m. post office blast caught the building bustling with activity, killing four South Vietnamese civilians and wounding 19.

Three grenade attacks late Wednesday and early today against U.S. and South Vietnamese military trucks killed one civilian and wounded six American GIs, 15 civilians and three government soldiers. All the terrorists escaped on motorbikes.

It was the first time in almost six weeks that Communist terrorists have launched widespread attacks inside the capital. This time, it served to underscore the guerrillas' military ability to allied negotiators in Paris.

The renewal of attacks against South Vietnam's major cities included a six-round rocket attack early today into Hue, killing three Vietnamese civilians and wounding two, military spokesmen said.

Not since March 15 had Communist gunners hit Hue, South Vietnam's third largest city. Today's attack was the first shelling of a major city since Da Nang was hit April 17.

Although the level of Communist shellings has tapered off, the level of combat increased along the Cambodian border last week as reflected today in casualty figures released by the U.S. Command.

The figures showed 205 GIs slain and 1,288 wounded last week, compared to 163 killed and 1,235 wounded in the lightest losses in four months during the previous seven days. It brought to 34,651 the number of Americans killed in Vietnam.

UPI correspondent Nat Gribson said the post office bombing was a 25-pound satchel of TNT planted under a table. The force of its explosion shattered the building's windows and sent glass splinters shooting 50 feet.

Cong Peace Plan: Coalition and Vote

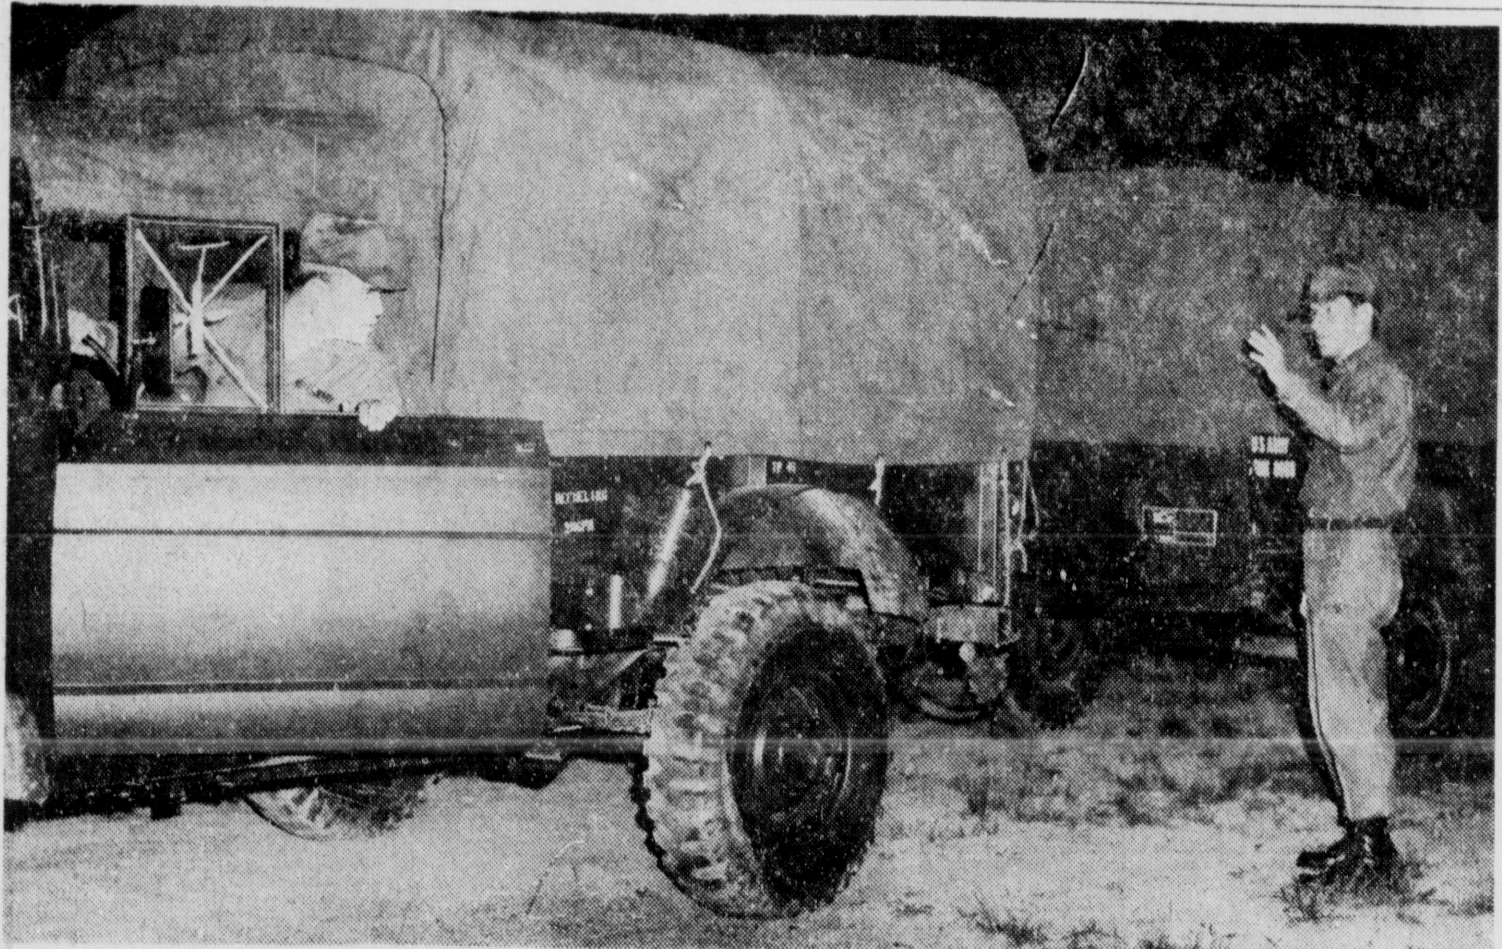

PARIS (UPI)—The Viet Cong proposed a new Vietnamese peace plan today, calling for a provisional coalition government to set up free elections in South Vietnam.

The proposal won prompt endorsement from the North Vietnamese delegation. The U.S. and South Vietnamese delegations withheld comment until studying the plan further.

Records of the Communist presentation at today's 16th session of the peace talks showed the Viet Cong peace plan called for an end to all fighting prior to holding general elections. The Viet Cong said that during the pre-election peace period, neither the South Vietnamese government in Saigon nor the North Vietnamese government in Hanoi nor the Viet Cong and its political arm, the National Liberation Front (NLF), should attempt to impose its will on the South Vietnamese people.

According to the documents, the pre-election coalition administration would be made up of both non-Communist and Communist elements.

Earlier in the talks, the United States and South Vietnam rejected Communist charges that the allies had stepped up the war.

Resolution on Orderly Operation No Decision on the Languages

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON
Approximately 30 foreign language teachers and other professional employees of the Kingston School District Consolidated met in closed session Wednesday night with the Board of Education to discuss a reported plan to phase out the foreign language program in seventh and eighth grades.

Teachers were told that no decision had been reached and the matter is one of several under consideration by board members for the school year 1969-70 as a means of reducing costs. It appeared from conversations prior to the meeting that the teachers understood the board already had approved the proposal.

The language teachers appeared at the session with a petition signed by 17, who urged that the current program be continued.

After the regular executive session, the board at an open meeting unanimously approved a resolution directing the administrative, supervisory and instructional personnel of Kingston schools to "use firmly and promptly" all lawful measures to enforce observance of school regulations, concerning the behavior of all students.

The resolution also gave assurance to the responsible school administrators and their staffs of the board's complete support of the use of all lawful measures to assure the orderly operation of schools in the district.

The board went on record in commending the large majority of students in secondary schools of the district "for their observance of high standards of conduct and their exemplary behavior during the regular school day and at various school affairs and programs."

Members of the board concurred with Mrs. Evelyn Corsones in commending administrators and students for their behavior during the May Day observance. It had been noted that several instances of "disruptive behavior" had been reported in secondary schools of the district.

After the open meeting, reporters and several non-teachers were asked to leave the board room, while the school board members reconvened in closed session to discuss with the foreign language teachers and other professional employees the proposed curtailment of the language program.

The special public meeting had been called to canvass the vote cast in Tuesday's election.

A resolution was unanimously approved certifying the election of Harold E. Keator Jr. and H. Peter Hoffman of Lake Katrine to 5-year terms on the board. Keator is finishing his first long term. The official vote was Keator 1721, Hoffman 1343; Mrs. Bernadine J. Collier of Zena—736; Seymour R. Semilof of Rolling Meadows—719 and Everette Hodge of Kingston—456. The canvass showed 117 blank votes and 37 void.

The board also approved a second resolution declaring that the special proposition relating to the increase in the existing constitutional tax limitation of 1.75 to 2 per cent was defeated by an official vote of 2404 to 247 with 8 void ballots and 24 blanks.

Board members voted unanimously to join other school districts in the county in supporting Legislator Joseph Martorana (9th Dist.) in a resolution he will submit at tonight's meeting of the County Legislature calling for reconsideration by the Tax Base Study and Finance Committee to disburse a portion of the county sales tax revenues to school districts.

Arthur H. Withall, board president, reported that a public hearing will be held to discuss the tentative school budget for 1969-70 in the George Washington School auditorium on Wednesday, June 18, at 8 p. m.

Webber: No More; Feth Named Planner

By SHANE CROSBY

STONE RIDGE
Roy Webber, supervisor of Marletown since 1957, confirmed reports Wednesday that he will not seek reelection on the Republican ticket this November.

Webber said he had informed the town's Republican party recently that he would not run for office in the next election, bringing to an end almost 20 years in public office that included six two-year terms as supervisor and more than seven years as Marletown Justice of the Peace.

$404,000 For Document

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A rare first print of the Declaration of Independence passed out on the streets of Philadelphia in July, 1776, has fetched $404,000 at an auction nearly 193 years later.

A. Dallas, Tex., businessman, Ira G. Corn Jr. outbid New York rare manuscripts dealer H. P. Kraus at an auction Wednesday to purchase the document. It was printed by John Dunlap the night of July 4, 1776.

Corn described the document as "the single most valuable printed copy in the history of mankind, with the exception of the Bible."

The document was uncovered among the stock of Leary's Book Store, the oldest in the nation, on Dec. 31 when the firm was sold.

No Advice

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., says he did not give his son, Michael, 18, "any particular advice" before the youth sought exemption from the draft as a conscientious objector. "All I've done is to suggest the position I have taken publicly," McCarthy said. "That's all I did with my son." Michael, a student at Georgetown Prep, asked for exemption April 10, five days after his 18th birthday.

He said he was not completely through with the political life of the party, but personal commitments and a desire to take more time for his home life dictated the "retirement."

His confirmation came following an orderly town board meeting here at which resolutions were passed naming the seven members of the town's planning board to seats on a town zoning commission.

Feth to Plans Board
The seat of one Planning Board member, Fred W. Meyer, who resigned in March, was filled Wednesday with the appointment of a High Falls resident, James Feth. Feth is the first High Falls resident to be appointed to the present board.

A question on how many persons to seat on the newly clarified Zoning Commission was settled when the town board set the number at nine. Discussions at past meetings had offered numbers from the basic seven up to 15 or more.

Town Justice of the Peace Robert S. Diamond had been asked by the town to check with zoning commissions and planning boards in other areas, including Dutchess County, and after hearing his report of numbers on other boards, the town "happily arrived at nine."

Terms of office for the seven who are now on both the commission and the board are:

Terms of the Seven
Vernon Barnhart, Nov. 1969; Frank Brooks, Nov. 1970; Stanley Walker, Nov. 1971; Clarence Hanson, Nov. 1971; G. R. Numrich, Nov. 1972; Mrs. Kenneth Davenport, Nov. 1973, and the newest member, James Feth, Nov. 1973 (the term of former member Meyer).

John J. Albright of Stone Ridge was named head of the town's constable force to oversee a crackdown on junk cars in Marletown. Four other names were brought to the attention of the board for future positions on the force.

The board discussed the appointment of at least one constable to the five-man force after Webber noted that a vacancy is expected shortly. Considered were Robert Gerdes of High Falls, William Webber, Edward Crosswell Jr., and Fred Quick. The board tabled any action on the four until the vacancy becomes public and until after investigation by Albright.

State Aid Lower

The board was informed by the state office of Equalization and Assessments that state aid due for the town from April, 1969, to the end of March, 1970, would be five per cent less due to cuts in the state budget. Webber said the amount the town will lose would be around $1,270.

Incumbents Win; Schulman Challenged

Onteora Voters OK $4 Million Budget

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

BOICEVILLE — A $4,220,021 budget passed by a substantial margin and three incumbent Board of Education members were swept back into office during voting in Onteora Central Schools District Wednesday.

The budget for the 1969-70 school year — which topped the $4-million mark, was the highest in history, and represented an eight per cent increase — was approved by a vote of 1,386 to 922. It carried by hefty margins in all polling centers of the district.

In Shandaken-Lexington, it was approved by a vote of 221 to 191. Olive-Marbletown residents favored the budget 291 to 164. West Hurley brought in the widest margin of support; passed the budget 441 to 385. Woodstockers cast 441 votes for the budget, 385 against.

The total vote was considered quite heavy. Out of 3,995 registered voters, 2,488 turned out at the polls.

And, out of the large number voting, only one resident was challenged at the polls. It was a challenge that could have repercussions, however.

When Walter H. Schulman of Bearsville, president of the Woodstock Township Taxpayers Association and a long-time critic of the Onteora Board of Education and its budgetary procedures, appeared at the Woodstock School to vote, his legal right to do so was challenged by inspector of elections, Mrs. Gordon Taylor, also of Bearsville.

Mrs. Taylor contended that at the time Schulman had registered to vote in yesterday's election, he registered as a Woodstock property owner. She further argued that he is not now an owner of property in the township and, therefore, unqualified to vote for either the budget or school board candidates.

Allowed to Vote

Schulman insisted on his right to vote; was allowed to do so. However, in a late night meeting following the closing of the polls, the OCS Board of Education, noting it had "an obligation to do so," voted unanimously to "transmit the challenge to school district attorney Vincent Connelly. The Kingston Lawyer is expected to follow through on the legalities involved, and specify what further action should be taken. Schulman, considered one of the staunchest defenders of the taxpayer in Ulster County, could be subject to a misdemeanor fine by Town of Woodstock officials and his vote could be stricken from the final tallies, if the challenge stands. Just prior to the election, Schulman and his Association went on record as favoring rejection of the budget and endorsed five candidates for the school board by name. Two of whom eventually emerged victorious in the voting.

Residents of the Onteora district elected their five Board of Education members from a field of 11 candidates. All three incumbents running were returned to office, including board president Richard O. Langham of Woodstock who defeated Donald Lawson of Maverick Park 1,051 to 1,021 in a race for a one-year term.

W. Jack Kahn of West Hurley, board vice-president, was returned to office for a five-year term, besting his opponent, David Ballantine of Bearsville.

1,229 to 768. Woodstocker Edward Goddard, seeking to retain his seat for a three-year term, polled 1,104 votes to 906 for his challenger, Antoinette Tennant of Samsonville.

New Board Member

New to the board will be Peter Rakov of Woodstock, who won out in a three-way race for a five-year term. Rakov totaled 858 votes to 777 for Carole Eichhorn and 523 for John T. Spratt. Mrs. Eichhorn resides in Woodstock; Spratt in West Hurley.

Also taking a trustee seat for the first time will be Ellen Eriksson, of Big Indian, Oliveira, who was elected for a one-year term over Norbert Denil, of Maverick Park, by a vote of 1,222 to 885.

The results were greeted with satisfaction by members of the OCS board and administrative staff, who had seen the district suffering two budget defeats in the last five years.

Said Superintendent of Schools Dr. Harold Snyder:

"We are very gratified. We feel it is a vote of confidence in our school system and in the board." Snyder also said he was very happy for the children, who will benefit from the good product we had to sell." Personally, and aside from other considerations, he said he was "especially happy that we again have representation in Shandaken."

Shandaken, in the upper reaches of the school district, has a record historically of voting down the budget; rarely registers its approval when school financing involves tax increases.

Of his return to office, board president Richard Langham said:

"I am delighted that the budget was carried by such overwhelming support. I view the results as indicative of the public's support of the course the Board of Education has taken," particularly in view of the fact that "all incumbent members were re-elected."

Edward Goddard, another re-elected incumbent, minimized his own victory; said he was "happy that the top line (the budget itself) went through so easily." W. Jack Kahn, voted to succeed himself, also used the work "happy" in his brief comment. He added that the vote in his favor, and for the budget, lead him to believe that he "should continue doing what I had been doing previously."

Football to Return

At the Board of Education meeting which followed the tallying of votes district-wide, trustees appointed three additional inspectors of elections. Members also heard the official election returns from Charles J. Tiano of Woodstock, who served as Chairman of the Annual School District Meeting. Tiano voiced his approval of the budget's passage; said he was particularly happy that football would be back at Onteora next year. (This interscholastic sport was dropped from the OCS schedule last fall when the 1968-69 budget suffered two defeats before finally gaining approval in a third vote in mid-September.)

Since Langham is currently finishing up a five year term and was elected yesterday to a one year term, legal technicalities involved called for his resignation from one seat. After yielding the chair to vice-president Kahn, he submitted a letter of resignation for the five year term, citing the fact that the law calls for him to "take office immediately" on the one year unexpired term of Carolyn Hanks for which he ran yesterday.

His resignation from the five year term was accepted and the board vote to fill the vacancy created by appointing Peter Rakov, who won that seat yesterday, to sit on the board from now through June 30, at which time he will take his elected seat.

Saugerties Elects Three

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

SAUGERTIES — Saugerties Central School District elected three members to the Board of Education at the annual election Wednesday with two running unopposed and Donald S. Calderwood defeating Velma R. Wright in the lone contest.

Calderwood polled 414 and Mrs. Wright 205 on the voting machines. Incumbent Anthony Rizzio polled 457 and Charles Fous running unopposed for the position vacated by Board President Arthur F. Simmons, tallied 466, the greatest number polled. A total of 634 balloted.

Calderwood fills the post vacated by LeRoy Snyder, whose term expired this year. He did not seek reelection. Calderwood is vice president and general manager of Kingston Coal and Oil Co., Inc. Fous is employed as business manager of the Institute of Experimental Pathology and Toxicology at Albany Medical College. He also serves as a water commissioner for the Village of Saugerties.

All were running for three-year terms.

No District Budget
Due to unusual circumstances at the budget hearing Tuesday night and approval of adjournment to June 10 by voting machine ballot, the centralized district does not have a budget.

An adjournment motion was made by Howard Wittenbecker of Blue Mountain in which he stated that the Board of Education had not contracted for a professional or non-professional staff for the school and in accordance with State Education Law, a school budget could not be adopted under these circumstances.

To clarify their position in the matter, the officers and members of the non-professional staff, including Saugerties Central School Clerical and Teacher Aide Association and Saugerties Central School Service Organization issued a statement today.

The two groups noted that they do not have a contract this year with the Board of Education, but both organizations announced they had arrived at a satisfactory agreement with the Board of Education some two months ago.

The vote to adjourn was carried 378 to 300 and the budget hearing will be scheduled for June 10 at 7:30 p. m. in Saugerties High School auditorium. The budget totals $4,496,315 with estimated tax rate of $124.27.

The motion to adjourn referred to the fact that the School Board had not come to a contractual agreement with Saugerties Teachers Association, bargaining agents for the teachers. The current teachers contract expires June 30.

Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, superintendent of schools today issued a statement of facts for the taxpayers information. Among these he stated that the teachers demanded a number of changes in the current contract and a new salary schedule with a starting salary of $7,500 for a beginning teacher. The present schedule calls for $6,500. There were also other changes which would have cost taxpayers an estimated $452,458 and raised the tax rate by an estimated $40.54.

The teachers declared an impasse in negotiations on March 6, the superintendent said, and asked the State Public Employees Relations Board to enter the dispute. The requirements of the Taylor Law were followed to the letter through mediation and factfinding, he said. The teachers were then given individual copies of the Board's decision on each of the controversial issues. On a request by the teachers another meeting was held but the Board did not change its position. The present contract with the changes approved would then become the 1969-1970 contract, Dr. Arnold said.

The Public Employees Relations Board factfinder recommended a four per cent increase over and above the regularly scheduled increments for teachers. Dr. Arnold said. The Board of Education has included a two per cent increase in its budget.

Offers Rejected
The teachers rejected both offers. The teacher increase included in the Board's offer would average approximately 4.6 per cent, the superintendent said.

(The Teachers Association in a previous statement said both offers were unfair because the cost of living went up 4.8 per cent last year.)

Dr. Arnold continued, the Board of Education has the power and duty, under the Education Law, to set salaries of all employees. Therefore the adjournment of the budget hearing appears to be of little purpose except to keep taxpayers from casting their ballots and force them to attend another meeting.

Legal advice has been received indicating that the tactics attributed to the Saugerties Teachers Association may have been improper, Dr. Arnold advised. Adjournment of the session will cost the taxpayers an estimated $315, the superintendent concluded.

DAD OF SIX SLAIN — Mrs. Richard Nixon was attending a luncheon in the Dupont Circle area of Washington, D. C. Wednesday while a block away a suspected thief shot and killed a father of six children and wounded a policeman. Here, police and rescue workers bend over the body of Coast Guard Commander Warren David Andrews, of Fairfax, Va. Andrews was passing outside a Western Union office when the suspect, a Western Union messenger identified by police as William E. Johnson Jr., grabbed an arresting officer's gun, according to a police spokesman, and fired five shots, wounding a policeman in the leg and killing Andrews. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Nixon Forecasts Some Progress

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon flew to Florida today for a four-day holiday and more work on his emerging domestic program. Several Cabinet officers, including Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch and Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, were expected to join him at his vacation villa Friday for conferences on home-front problems. White House aides said there was a possibility Nixon would send to Congress Friday another in his series of messages outlining his domestic policies.

On Jobless, Benefits

It was expected to deal with unemployment and increased benefits for low-income workers under the unemployment insurance program.

It was in the past two weeks that Nixon has asked Congress for legislation on income tax reform, crime prevention, obscenity, and food for the hungry. And he is expected to round out his domestic program with several other messages within the next few weeks.

Nixon arrived at his vacation compound just south of Miami Beach at 1:30 a.m. after attending a GOP fund-raising gala in his honor in Washington Wednesday night.

He told the Republicans that his administration at the end of the year will have made some progress toward solving three of the nation's most pressing problems—Vietnam, violence at home and inflation.

He said that in the nearly four months of the new administration, the Republicans have started mastering the machinery of government, which, he said, "will enable us to make progress on the issues."

No Flashy Headlines

Nixon said the progress will Saturday.

CCNY Trying It With Guard

By United Press International

City College of New York reopens today with police guards to prevent a repetition of Wednesday's fights between white students and black and Puerto Rican students.

In Washington, D.C., Howard University students remained in control of six campus buildings. The administration of the mostly Negro school gave them a 24-hour ultimatum—ending at mid-afternoon today—to allow the barricaded campus to reopen.

National Guardsmen and New Orleans police were at the campus of Southern University today, hoping to catch an elusive Lebanese professor who defied Dean Emmett W. Bishful's order Wednesday to "vacate your office and the campus" and skipped ahead of police.

Nasser Big Block: Eban

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser is one of the biggest obstacles to peace in the Middle East, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said today.

"He is too weak for war or for peace—too weak militarily at the moment for war and he's not strong enough politically to take the audacious and statesmanlike step of exploring peace," Eban said. Nasser "is one of the deeper reasons for the continuing deadlock."

Nasser is in a difficult position, Eban said in an exclusive interview. The Cambridge-educated diplomat lit a cigar as he relaxed in the book-lined study of the foreign minister's official residence. A framed color photograph of former President Lyndon B. Johnson looked on as Eban talked of Nasser.

"New leadership would be much freer to look at the 1967 war with a lucid realism without taking responsibility," he said.

Eban said he would turn down any Big Four proposals on peace in the Middle East proposed by U.S. Special Envoy Gunnar V. Jarring that did not please Israel.

"Here we have the United States, whose position is a policy that gives a minimal satisfaction to our basic interests, taking that policy into a bargaining process with the Soviet Union to whom Israel's interest don't matter at all," Eban said.

He said again that Israel was willing to negotiate boundaries across the Sinai, the west bank of the Jordan River and the Golan Heights conquered in the June 5-10, 1967 war.

"There is no ground at all for the Arabs or anyone else to believe that our national consensus is opposed to any territorial concessions," he said.

"It was Mrs. (Prime Minister Golda) Meir who said some time ago that agreed boundaries obviously mean something different from the current cease-fire lines or the old armistice lines, because Israel will never agree to the old armistice lines and we know that the Arabs don't agree to the present cease-fire lines as permanent boundaries," Eban said.

Incorporating the conquered lands would effectively block any peace negotiations anyway, he said. He said absorption of the new lands would create "a country in which the Jewish majority would very soon come into question and whose laws, culture, social and educational level would not reflect the ideals of the Jewish state."

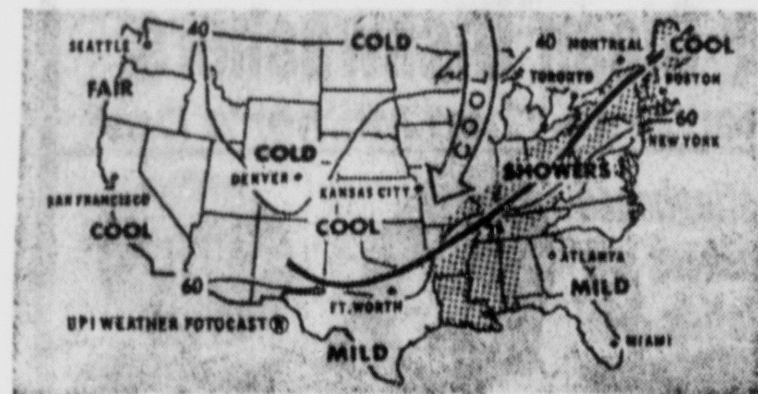

"On the other hand, if you try to solve this by applying laws and not giving the Arabs citizenship, then you bring Israel's democratic character under question and invite the kind of comparison we wouldn't like to have invited."

ROBERT W. HASBROUCK

Fish Sees Campus Dangers

POUGHKEEPSIE

The surrender of the Cornell University authorities in the face of militant armed students brings us face to face with a new and dangerous phase in campus political activism, Congressman Hamilton Fish said today.

As President Nixon stated this week, what is needed here among university administrators is backbone to stand off the elements who would destroy our institutions of higher learning.

"Historically, campus political activism has long been a tradition in other countries. Only in recent years has the U.S. become a country where the proportion of under 25-year-olds has wielded an important political and economic influence."

The congressman stated that many colleges and universities, recognizing the desire on the part of students to participate in decisions which affect their lives, have improved communications among students, faculty and administration. In institutions where real communication had been established, violence was all the more unnecessary when it came.

"Whether we speak of a free university or a free society we accept a commitment to the value of reason. We are a nation in which free expression and the political process combine to produce rational decisions. Our universities are the very citadels of free inquiry and reason. Both are committed to reason and persuasion, not to violence, to bring about change."

"On many campuses today reason and persuasion have been abandoned by some for assault and violence. A free university cannot fulfill its function of scholarship and reason in an atmosphere of upheaval any more than a free society could fulfill its function of ordered liberty. College administrations supported by college faculties have their own internal disciplinary rules and recourse to local ordinances and state laws regarding criminal trespass. The responsibility for maintaining an environment in which students can pursue scholarship rests primarily with college administrations and faculties."

KINGSTON rated World War II hero.

Guest speaker at the annual spring dinner meeting of the Ulster County Branch, Holland Society, will be Major General Robert W. Hasbrouck, a native Kingstonian and much decorated 7th Armored Division which the Governor Clinton Hotel Bulge for its defense of the Saturday with reception at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:45 p.m. With against six German divisions for six days. General Hasbrouck commanded the Staff of the Army Ground Forces following VE Day, 1945. He retired in 1947 and makes his home in Washington, D.C. A West Point graduate in the class of 1917, General Hasbrouck was a veteran of World War I also. He was awarded

Community Concert

This is Community Concert Week in the Kingston area and we take the occasion to recommend support of the annual membership campaign. Kingston is particularly fortunate to have such a voluntary association to sponsor this cultural activity.

This season's exceptional program will include a rare musical treat when the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra appears here. This orchestra has achieved major symphony status and has won wide critical acclaim.

Metropolitan Opera baritone William Walker, who has made numerous appearances on the Bell Telephone Hour and the Tonight Show, also will be presented in the series.

The third concert will feature the Whit/Lo Singers who fill a need in the concert field for a chorus of high musical standards.

The Community Concert Association provides a definite program in which those interested in fine music can do something about it. Those who become members of the association insure the presentation of professional artists for the residents of the community. And there is nothing like the finest music to stimulate a desire for more music. Other musical activities in the community including choruses, church choirs and instrumental groups or other locally sponsored concerts are all either directly or indirectly affected by the Community Concert Association.

The association operates on a no-profit, no-loss plan. All membership fees are used for the payment of artists and the presentation of concerts.

To continue fine music in this community, everyone concerned with the area's cultural progress should join the association now.

Rise in Obscene Mail

One of the tortured questions of the day is how to cope with delinquency among the nation's young people. How painful it is to read, then, that American homes are being bombarded with the largest volume of sex-oriented mail in history. Most of it is unsolicited, unwanted, and deeply offensive to those who receive it.

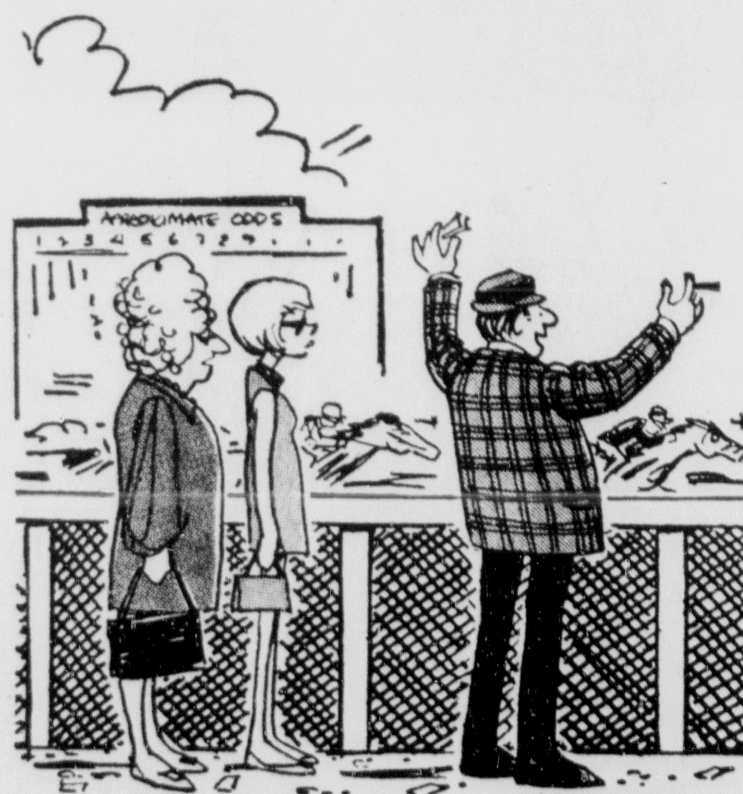

President Nixon has asked Congress for three new laws in order to shield youngsters from offensive sex material. The first would prohibit outright the sending of offensive sex materials to any child or teen-ager under 18. The second would prohibit the sending of advertising designed to appeal to a prurient interest in sex. It would apply regardless of the age of the recipient. The third measure complements the second by providing added protection from the kind of smut advertising now being mailed, unsolicited, into so many homes.

President Nixon asks Congress to make it a Federal crime to use the mails, or other facilities of commerce, for the commercial exploitations of a prurient interest in sex through advertising.

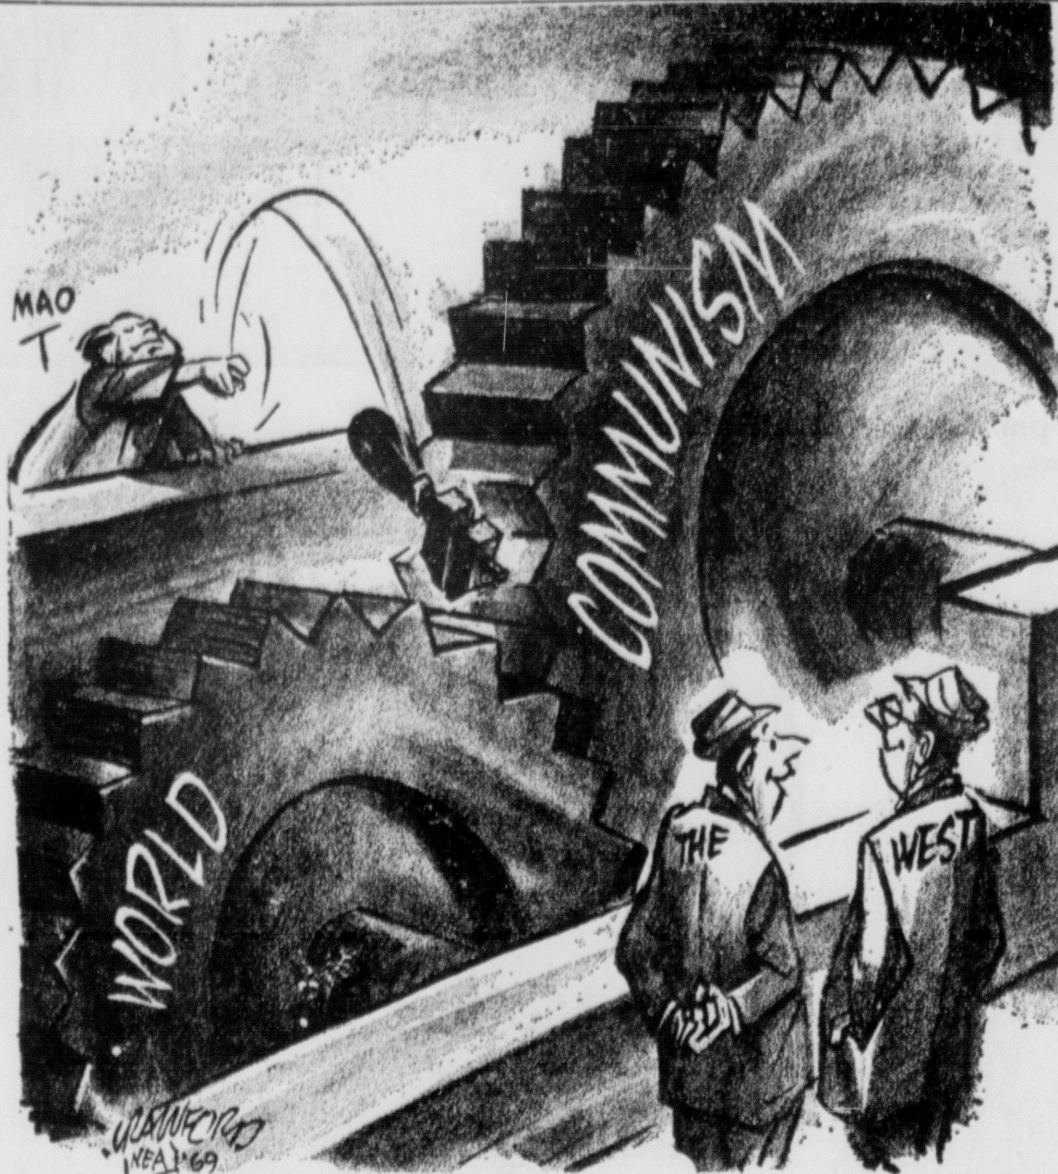

Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. recently introduced legislation to ban all interstate and mail shipments of obscene materials deemed harmful to persons under 18 years of age. The Congressman had received many complaints from constituents about the flood of unsolicited obscene literature and materials through the mails. His bill it patterned after a New York State law covering distribution and sale of obscene materials that has been upheld as constitutional by the Supreme Court.

We are certain that the serious dimensions of this problem are recognized by Congress and they will pass laws to end this traffic in obscenity, which is corroding the morals of our youngsters.

BERRY'S WORLD

"The thing that bothers me now is—I never know if he's cheering for the horse or the pretty little female jockeys!"

"Damned Clever, These Chinese!"

David Lawrence Says

Justice Marshall Speaks Out on Racial Friction

WASHINGTON — For several years now, it has been evident that there would be no lessening of racial friction in America unless white people talked to whites and black people talked to blacks about the fundamental principles essential to good behavior, and members of the two races then worked together to maintain harmony.

Thurgood Marshall, who is the first Negro to become a member of the Supreme Court of the United States, has just made a speech to a Negro audience at the centennial university in New Orleans, in which he said some plain things that both whites and blacks need to take to heart if there is to be stability in the life of the nation.

Justice Marshall criticized black militants, as he declared that "nothing will be settled with guns, firebombs or rocks." He admitted, of course, that people were frustrated. But his advice was clear-cut. He declared: "You are not going to compete in the world until you have training exactly like everyone else, and hopefully better, because when you are a Negro, you have to be better."

Mr. Marshall graduated at the head of his class from Howard University Law School, and, as chief legal officer of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, won the famous desegregation case in the Supreme Court in 1954. He was appointed by President Kennedy to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and was later named by President Johnson to be Solicitor General in the Department of Justice in Washington. In 1967, President Johnson appointed him to the highest court in the land. In the New Orleans speech, Justice Marshall said:

"Race is not an excuse for not keeping up your house properly, nor is race an excuse for not keeping your children in school, even though they may still be segregated."

While Justice Marshall agreed that he believes "black is beautiful," he doesn't think that it is the only color that is beautiful. He continued:

"I think we Negro Americans have just as many beautiful people in mind and body, as well as skin, as any other group — and that we have just as many stinkers as any other group."

"Anarchy is anarchy, and it makes no difference who practices it — it is bad, it is punishable, and it should be punished."

This blunt way of talking will serve as an example for leaders of all races who have an influence in their communities. Not enough has been done to bring peoples of different races together informally to discuss what can be done to diminish the bitterness that exists.

There is, unfortunately, a lack of information about how Negroes and whites who do respect each other get along in the everyday life of the community. Many Negroes who live in the South, for instance, have long had a close friendship with white families. This happens in the North, too. This correspondent recalls that a Negro athlete was perhaps the most popular student in the high school he attended in Buffalo, N.Y. — a quiet and unostentatious individual who treated others with respect and earned the respect of everybody.

Communities throughout America have been indifferent to the organizations which have publicized friction and stirred up emotions. Again and again some of the disturbances in American cities have started in Negro neighborhoods, primarily because militant leaders have emphasized race prejudice and told Negroes they must use any means, including violence, to attain their "rights" and settle alleged grievances against the whites. Something of the same kind has happened in white neighborhoods.

The disorders in America today are largely the result of emotions stirred up as the Negro population has grown in size and as schools have been desegregated. Artificial steps to bring about integration have produced uneasiness and hard feelings, mainly because the citizens, both white and black, have not tackled the problem with an understanding of what can be done when there are voices of reason and conciliation.

Justice Marshall has performed a public service in speaking out on the subject of how racial friction is intensified by militants and in pointing to the prerequisite of harmony in any community — the recognition of one's own responsibility, irrespective of race, to be a law-abiding citizen.

Does Russia Want Peace Or Is It U. S. Pipe Dream?

By LEON DENNEN

NEA Foreign News Analyst UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (NEA) — By the time President Nixon warned Moscow not to employ armed force against the Czechoslovaks in the Kremlin's agents and secret police were already in full control in Prague.

Without firing a shot the Russians reversed the liberal trend in Czechoslovakia and upset the balance of power in East and Central Europe.

They also reaffirmed the "validity" of the "Brezhnev doctrine" which, they claim, gives them the right to invade Communist countries where the Marxist-Leninist regimes are ostensibly imperiled, including Red China, Yugoslavia and Romania.

More significant is the fact that the Kremlin leaders pursued their policy of naked aggression even as they were discussing with the Nixon administration control of the arms race, peace in the Middle East and Vietnam and the prospect of a summit meeting.

Ever since the upsurge of dissidence in the Communist countries of East Europe and the outbreak of armed clashes on the Soviet-Chinese border, Moscow has been behaving like a bear with a sore head, striking out angrily in new directions but retaining a certain degree of animal cunning.

The result has been shifts and zigzags in Soviet policy which warrant careful scrutiny by Nixon.

A "detente" with Russia is the target of the President's foreign policy. He has staked much of the success of his "peace offensive" upon his relations and negotiations with Soviet leaders.

What Nixon and his advisers must therefore decide is whether the Russians are actually interested in peace. Or are they merely exploiting the prospect of detente to convince President Tito of Yugoslavia, Ceausescu of Romania and, above all, the West Germans that the United States is likely to make a deal with Russia at their expense?

The question, though not easily answered, is crucial. Is Nixon prepared to pay Russia's price for detente by reacting cautiously to such acts of aggression as North Korea's destruction of the U.S. Navy plane and the Red Army's rape of Czechoslovakia? Admittedly, military retaliation for these acts of aggression is inconceivable. But surely this is not the time to create the impression that Soviet-American co-operation is fast becoming a reality.

This is precisely the impression the Russians are trying to create. They are in trouble in and out of Russia. They have alienated many of their supporters even in the communist world.

Drew Pearson Says Another Lockheed Scandal That Army Tried to Suppress

Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported on April 13 that Soviet Communist Leader Leonid Brezhnev "has come under harsh attack by some of his most influential comrades and may be losing his grip on the Kremlin."

More than two weeks later, on May 1, the New York Times carried largely the same story, reporting that "opposition has developed in the Soviet Communist party to the leadership of Leonid Brezhnev."

WASHINGTON — On top of the disclosure that the Air Force falsified reports about the C-5A transport plane, this column has learned of another Lockheed contract scandal that the Army has tried to suppress.

Lockheed Aircraft is developing a combat helicopter, called the Cheyenne, whose costs have soared far more spectacularly than have the experimental models. Indeed, Lockheed encountered so much difficulty with rotor instability that a blue-ribbon Army advisory committee warned the company to conduct extensive wind-tunnel tests before sending up another test pilot.

Lockheed ignored this advice and scheduled a test flight over the Pacific on March 12. The pilot began putting the Cheyenne through its paces off the California coast not far from the site of Union Oil's great undersea oil leak.

Witnesses said three of the helicopter's four main rotor blades flew off, the craft exploded in the air, and the debris scattered into the Pacific. Test Pilot David Bell was killed.

Now it develops that the Army document granting the Cheyenne research contract to Lockheed was signed by Willis Hawkins, then Assistant Secretary of the Army in charge of research, who came to the Pentagon from Lockheed and later returned to Lockheed.

During the competition for the Cheyenne contract, Hawkins also attended a meeting at which the proposals from a dozen rival companies were discussed. Yet he had signed a stipulation that he would dissociate himself from any matter involving Lockheed. He was also required to sell his Lockheed stock, give up his stock options and sever all ties with the company. Yet when he left the Pentagon in June 1966, he returned to his former desk at Lockheed as vice president in charge of science and engineering.

Just Happenstance.

A company spokesman assured this column that Hawkins had excused himself before the Cheyenne proposals were discussed and that he had not participated in the decision to award the contract to Lockheed. The reason he signed the authorizing document, the spokesman explained, was that he happened to be Acting Secretary of the Army at the time.

The spokesman also acknowledged that an Army advisory committee, headed by Dr. Kury Hohenemser, had pointed out some technical problems connected with the Cheyenne. The spokesman denied, however, that Lockheed had been negligent in going ahead with the March 12 flight test. The 10 test models, he said, had made 900 previous flights.

A year ago, New York's Rep. Otis Pike asked L. Mendel Rivers, the House Armed Services chairman, to investigate the skyrocketing Cheyenne costs. Pike also cited Hawkins' apparent conflict of interest. Whatever extent he participated in the decision, he was the Army's research chief at the time Lockheed was awarded the contract.

Yet Rivers flatly refused to investigate Lockheed, although he has sent his aides and secretaries all over the world investigating the most trivial matters. It has also been reported that Rivers pulled strings inside the Pentagon to get the C-5A contract for Lockheed's plant in Marietta, Ga.

About this time, Lockheed offered to help pay for the erection of a bronze bust of L. Mendel Rivers on a seven-foot granite shaft, overlooking Rivers Avenue in North Charleston.

A subscription to build the monument was raised by North Charleston businessmen who wanted to show their gratitude to Rivers for bringing so many defense contracts into their area. Lockheed offered to make up whatever amount the local businessmen failed to raise. As it happened, they were short a little over $200, which Lockheed immediately coughed up.

Among the guests who flew down to South Carolina for the dedication, recall Pentagon insiders, was Hawkins. He stood in a drenching rain with a glittering array of soaked Pentagon celebrities, witnesses remembered, while Mrs. Rivers snipped the ribbon unveiling the L. Mendel Rivers monument.

Hawkins couldn't be reached for comment. This illustrates, however, how the military-industrial-Congressional complex works.

Merry-Go-Round

Nixon is getting as smart politically as LBJ. The sudden trip to pay tribute to South Carolina's Jimmy Byrnes on his 90th birthday was planned just after the White House learned that Sen. Strom Thurmond, also of South Carolina, was going to blast the President on Monday. Thurmond has been irked over Nixon's renegeing on his Miami Beach promise to go slow on school desegregation. The President also took Everett Dirksen to South Carolina. Dirksen has just held up confirmation of William H. Brown III, Philadelphia Negro, to be head of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, is also blocking Dr. John Knowles, the critic of the AMA, to be Assistant Secretary of HEW. Sen. George Aiken, Vermont Republican, is the only horticulturist in the U.S. Senate. Most Senators are lawyers. Aiken has just shown his versatility by writing a book, "Pioneering with Wildflowers." Lady Bird Johnson is one of the many Aiken fans who will read it. Credit Rep. Bill Moorhead, Pittsburgh Democrat, for exposing Lockheed's inflated C-5A costs. Moorhead began chipping away at the military budget early this year — a thankless task. Finally he struck pay dirt.

Black Panther Creed: A Gun Must Be Countered by a Gun

LOS ANGELES — (NEA)

"The only power we have," says Sherront Banks, president of the Los Angeles chapter of the Black Panthers, "is the power of destruction. America has given us no alternative but to relate to that."

That may be a chilling thought for most Americans, but it's one that must be faced. Because the Panthers, small in numbers but intense in purpose, are very much a part of the violent world of America.

In a special interview arranged for NEA, Banks spells out what the Panthers are, what they want and what they'll do to get it:

"The Panthers are an all-black party and we say that all black people should belong to the party. But we realize that there are other people who are not black who are sincere and concerned about working with us."

"The party is revolutionary-nationalist. We're saying that the people should be in power. We realize that the world has become a neighborhood of communities and that the people should move to be nonethnocentric because the world isn't going to stand for that any more. The Panther party isn't going to stand for it either."

"We want an end to the robbery of the black community by the white businessman."

"We want education that exposes racist American society, education that teaches the true history of our role in present-day society."

"A greater number of black people are becoming aware of the fact that they're being oppressed and they're starting to resist the power structure. We have to educate these people on the methods of liberation."

Capitol Corridors

The New Rockefeller

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — There's a new Nelson Rockefeller at the helm of the state government, and he's the talk of the State Capitol.

The new Rockefeller is coming on strong as a conservative Republican, veering off on a course that has confounded both critics and admirers of the liberal policies he pursued during his first 10 years in office.

The reshaping of his image, deliberate or otherwise, began in January, when he surprised the New York political establishment by calling for a slowdown in the acceleration of state spending.

At one of his celebrated "town meetings" with New York citizens, he declared he was tired of being known as "Rocky the big spender."

Hewing to a conservative line during the legislature's annual session, Rockefeller gave observers an even bigger jolt when he signed legislation last week designed to prevent reassignment of pupils to achieve racial balance in public school enrollment.

The governor had lent strong support to the racial imbalance edicts of the departed education commissioner, James E. Allen Jr., whose efforts influenced President Nixon to name him U.S. education commissioner.

Sponsors of the so-called anti-busing bill privately had said they wouldn't bet a plug nickel on a Rockefeller signature. They had prepared a proposed state constitutional amendment, which does not require the governor's signature, for action next year.

What really fascinated Capitol onlookers was that Rockefeller's action on the school bill fell into a pattern of political policy that spelled Conservative party.

The fast-growing splinter party was formed in 1962 mainly by conservative Republicans with the avowed purpose of combatting what they said was Rockefeller's "ultra-liberal" approach to running the government.

The party immediately set up a clamor for cutbacks in state spending. But Rockefeller blithely ignored the demand, doubling expenditures during the ensuing six years. This year he dramatically reversed engines.

The Conservatives especially had pressed for cutbacks in the soaring welfare and education budgets. Rockefeller wouldn't hear of it — until this January, when he recommended sharp economies in both areas.

When Republicans decided to cut welfare even further, including reductions in family allowance, Rockefeller quickly acceded. He even agreed to a deeper retrenchment in the Medicaid program, which he once had described proudly as a major achievement in social progress.

The busing bill, however, was a particular project of the Conservative party, fully embraced by conservative Republicans sensitive to the protests of white parents — especially in the New York City suburbs.

Surely, liberal Republicans said, Rockefeller would draw the line there. But he did not.

Liberal elements in the legislature also were critical of the haste with which Rockefeller joined in the legislative effort to ban guns from college campuses. Most agreed the step was needed, but some saw it as a "knee-jerk" conservative reaction — in place of a more thoughtful attempt to get at the root causes of student unrest.

Finally, Rockefeller participated in setting up a commission to probe campus disorders. But, again, critics objected that the language of the legislation condemned the agitators in advance.

Those who believe they can explain the new Rockefeller trace the cause to his rejection by conservative minded Republicans in his all-out bid for the GOP presidential nomination last year.

Persons close to the governor say they detect in his attitude a bit of the old axiom — "If you can't beat them, you might as well join them."

At the same time, horrified Republican liberals wonder whether he actually might be contemplating an alliance with the Conservative party in next year's election, when he says he will seek a fourth term.

Senate majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, a conservative influence on Rockefeller, once put it rather simply, this way:

"I think he may be seeing things just a bit differently

American People Favor Laws To Control Heckling Candidates

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N. J., May 7—Clear evidence that the American people were offended by the heckling of candidates during last year's presidential campaign, and are upset about the treatment of other prominent speakers in recent weeks, is found in a recent Gallup Poll that shows three persons in four in favor of passing a law against attempts to disrupt a speech.

A major reason is the belief that heckling violates a speaker's right of free speech. An elderly male resident of Roanoke, Va., was angry: "All these people who interrupt speakers demand free speech themselves, but they're not prepared to give the other person this right."

The remark of a young Tucson, Ariz., housewife was in the same vein: "Hecklers should be given a chance to have their say, but they should not be allowed to disrupt a speaker or keep other people from hearing him."

79 Per Cent Agree

Another question in the same survey shows that the overwhelming majority of Americans (79 per cent) share the view of these two people that the attempt to disrupt a speaker is a violation of his right of free speech.

Perhaps no other presidential campaign in recent history has been as marked by the steady harassment of presidential and vice presidential candidates as was the 1968 campaign. On numerous occasions, for example, former Vice President Hubert Humphrey was interrupted in mid-sentence and prevented from continuing his speech.

American Independent party candidate George Wallace was subjected to constant heckling, but in many cases he was able to use his tormentors as foils and to his advantage in the campaign.

New Mood of Disrespect

Observers of the American scene have been profoundly disturbed over what they consider to be a new mood of disrespect toward speakers and an unwillingness to listen to another person's point of view, as evidenced by recent developments on many college campuses across the land.

The following question was put to a cross-section of 1525 adults in a survey completed in mid-April:

During the last election campaign many speeches by candidates were disrupted by hecklers. Do you think there should be a law against trying to disrupt a speech?

The national results are:

with their doctrinaire liberal reformers shouting for some kind of public catharsis over the 1963 Chicago convention. The party's wings are polarized as never before.

On top of that, Democrats are suffering the perennial problem of the "outs." On the short end in so many states, they simply cannot find good candidates to field.

Nevertheless, the Republicans have need to fret.

In Massachusetts, Gov. Francis Sargent, who succeeded John Volpe when he went to the President's cabinet, may be a bit too patrician for today's population mix in the state.

Moreover, a strong-running Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (up in 1970) could pull in any halfway suitable governor nominee with him. Sargent's hope has to be that the Democrats do not find one.

The one-term limit in Pennsylvania bars Gov. Raymond Shafter from another try. Lt. Gov. Broderick may emerge as his successor nominee, but his edge does not seem as clear as was Shafter's when he served with William Scranton. A swing state, Pennsylvania ought to be due for a shift. But, again, the Democrats' dearth of candidates could be the Republicans' most hopeful prospect.

HUD Secretary George Romney's Michigan successor, Gov. William Milliken, is a warmly appealing figure. But some GOP strategists fear he is not achieving Romney's high visibility and needs to move around much more. A good Democratic choice

Holding 30, GOP Worries Over 1970 Governorships

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent
LEXINGTON, Ky. (NEA)

The Republican party has reason to worry over holding at least four of its seven biggest governorships in 1970. Yet the ripped-up Democrats may turn out to be the GOP's great ally in this effort.

Presently occupying 30 of the 50 governors' chairs, the Republicans have not enjoyed this much statewide property since the early 1950s. Twenty-six of the 30 met here in their semi-annual ceremony of mutual congratulations.

Keeping governorship control may not be easy in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan. New York also could be shaky. Only California, with Gov. Ronald Reagan, and Florida, with the unpredictable Gov. Claude Kirk, today seem on the safe side.

Altogether, 24 of the 30 GOP governorships are on the block in 1970. About 16 of these may be fairly secure, the rest not.

Involved, of course, is much more than simply maintaining the present preponderance of numbers for the sake of show. Whoever controls most governorships and state legislatures in 1971 will have the largest voice in the major congressional reapportionment which will follow the 1970 census.

The Democrats have learned to live with factions like some families do with an embarrassing uncle. But their divisions have a deeper quality today, with their doctrinaire liberal reformers shouting for some kind of public catharsis over the 1963 Chicago convention. The party's wings are polarized as never before.

On top of that, Democrats are suffering the perennial problem of the "outs." On the short end in so many states, they simply cannot find good candidates to field.

Dog Licensing Law

Editor, The Freeman:

Lack of enforcement of the New York State dog licensing law by City Officials, is directly responsible for the many dogs running free on the streets of Kingston.

The period that a dog is protected by a license tag is from January 1 to December 31. The grace period from January 1 to February 10th, that is usually extended to delinquent dog owners, is legally for the purpose of City and Town clerks to prepare delinquent lists, which should be in the hands of city and town courts immediately after February 10th. So states the New York State dog licensing law as published by the Department of Agriculture and Markets. Even though one isn't contacted by the dog enumerator—some people purposely avoid him—one is still delinquent after January 1.

Unfortunately, many officials take the attitude that dog problems are not serious, until someone is bitten or dog packs, which are formed by uncontrolled dogs, cause serious damage. Even then, the officials don't make an effort to correct their own laxity, but call the SPCA to pick their chests out of the fire and their dogs off the streets. Stray dogs are always a problem, but could become a much more serious problem should a rabies epidemic occur.

The Ulster County SPCA agents and officers contend that nothing is accomplished by picking up dogs that are wearing license tags, in a futile effort to enforce the ordinance, while there are several hundred delinquent dog owners in Kingston. Many of them delinquent year after year. Unlicensed dogs that are picked up are never claimed. Even when SPCA agents know who owns them, there is no way of proving ownership. Many of these dogs must be destroyed, but the owners are free to get another dog the next day, which they usually do, and allow that to run free too. Where is the fairness in that?

Summons should be served to delinquent dog owners immediately after February 10th. Not at the convenience of officials who are elected or appointed to office, and paid by the taxpayers to do a specific job, even though they are running for office again.

When local officials wait until late in the year to make an effort to collect delinquent dog licenses, it is much easier to put it off until the following year. A real slipshod way of enforcing their own law.

Why don't law abiding citizens—taxpayers—who license their dogs, and are interested in city government, call the city clerk or city court and demand why this condition is allowed to exist year after year? Someone should be able to come up with an answer.

What Brand of Chiseler?
Editor, The Freeman:

To anyone who participates in the many avenues of communication today, by reading or listening to them, the word "chiseler" comes up to the top more and more frequently, as conditions become more grim and forbidding to those who win when that word is heard. Chiseling includes Social Security Benefits, too, with the mob. It has been in common use by those who are chiseling, themselves, through the avenues of nepotism, political appointments, commissioned jobs, and dignified tincup-carrying. Lately it has been written by one of our major political wise men that "Welfare destroys the re-as well as those with enough pull to be chosen from the competitive examination fields, if you manage to bring one of these jobs down, you're fixed for life. Loafing done isn't too obvious and is tolerated. To me, it is more honorable to be openly "on the dole" and not impair the morals by taking the government tincup route out. Certainly welfare-chiselers can't be said to not pay for the dollar or so flung out to them through the murky graces of the government-chiselers. Most of these just haven't the educational or personal qualifications to justify going out for the job, originally. Then, too, there is the professional political hanger-on, who is sustained year after year, through some friend in politics who "takes care of them and their relatives."

While the word "chiseler" has the dirty look, just so do those who throw the word around dozens of times each day. Let's look at it this way: what brand of chiseler are YOU? For, if you overuse the word, you should certainly know its complete meaning, colloquially, it means "to cheat," or "to swindle." Well, maybe your best friends won't tell on you? Sincerely yours, MARGUERITE EVANS ISAACS

Highland Picks Woman, Two Incumbents Bow

By LYNN MULVANEY

HIGHLAND

Two of three incumbent members of the Highland School Board of Education went down to defeat at the polls yesterday, voters elected a woman to the all-male board, and a new candidate won election.

In the contest for a five-year term in which two incumbents faced each other, Joseph Costantino was victorious with 424 votes to Giles Russell's 383.

In a second contest for another five-year term, Donald Halstead, incumbent, was defeated by Lewis E. King 420 to 375. King will serve on the board for the first time.

Running unopposed for a two-year term was Mrs. Lewis (Nancy) R. Smith who received 721 votes.

The number of voters turning out was considered average. Last year, when there was only one post to be filled with no opposition, only about 100 persons voted.

It had been anticipated that school district residents would be presented the board's proposed budget for the 1969-70 school year the night before the school board election.

But, the annual taxpayer's meeting ended abruptly when supporters of teachers successfully initiated a motion to adjourn. The proposed budget in the amount of $2,362,134.36 is up $170,972.82 from last year.

According to a spokesman for the teachers the reason for the surprise adjournment move was to postpone adoption of the budget until results of the fact-finding study currently being made by the Public Employee Relations Board are made known.

The board had not, however, set the amount of the new tax rate and many of the taxpayers attending the meeting supported the motion to adjourn because they felt that the budget should not be approved until the amount of the tax rate could be verified.

Inadvertent Error

Legislature Skips Payment

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI) — The state legislature adjourned last week without authorizing payment of more than $43.6 million in state debt that falls due this year, it was revealed Wednesday.

The state's bills, however, will be paid through a provision in the State Constitution to cover such emergencies. Embarrassed Assembly fiscal aides admitted that through an "inadvertent error" the bill authorizing payment of the debt did not pass the larger house in the rush for adjournment last Friday night. The bill did pass the Senate.

The money was part of the supplemental budget. It was authorized payment of bond of a "staff error." It apparently debts and interest for highway construction, mental health facilities, pure waters grants and outdoor recreation development. The emergency provision, which hasn't been used since 1859, authorizes the comptroller to pay state debts even if the legislature doesn't appropriate the money for them.

The State Constitution provides clearly that all obligations of the state shall be met. Comptroller Arthur Levitt said, "I shall carry out those provisions."

A spokesman for Levitt said this will involve impounding about $16 million needed to pay off construction bonds for highways, mental hygiene facilities and pure waters programs. A special fund will then be created through which Levitt will pay the debts.

The remaining money will not have to be impounded, since it can be paid through proceeds gained from the sale of bonds throughout the year.

A spokesman for Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea said the bill failed to pass because of a "staff error." It apparently debts and interest for highway construction, mental health facilities, pure waters grants and outdoor recreation development. The emergency provision, which hasn't been used since 1859, authorizes the comptroller to pay state debts even if the legislature doesn't appropriate the money for them.

Red Political Dissident Arrested by Soviet Police

MOSCOW (UPI) — Former Maj. Gen. Piotr G. Grigorenko, 63, leader of Moscow political dissidents, was arrested Wednesday on a charge of defaming the Soviet state, sources close to his family said today.

Grigorenko was arrested in Tashkent, capital of the Soviet Republic of Uzbekistan, 1,700 miles southeast of Moscow. He had gone there to attend the trial of 11 Crimean Tartars accused of taking part in a nationalist demonstration.

Police searched Grigorenko's apartment in Moscow and the homes of at least six of his friends. Sources close to the Grigorenko family said all appeals addressed to Soviet authorities as well as a typewriter and a book were removed from the apartment.

Grigorenko last November publicly denounced the "totalitarianism that hides behind the mask of so-called Soviet democracy."

He arrived in Tashkent May 3, the sources said. He had received a petition signed by 2,000 Crimean Tartars asking him to take part in the defense of 11 accused at the trial. The trial was to have opened Wednesday but was postponed indefinitely.

The sources said Grigorenko was warned by authorities he risked arrest if he went to Tashkent.

The sources said Grigorenko was arrested under Article 191, Section 4 of the Uzbek Criminal Code. It deals with distribution of "falsehoods derogatory to the Soviet state and Socialist system." Maximum penalty is three years in prison, which the Soviets call "deprivation of liberty."

Grigorenko, a former general, engineer and lecturer at Frunze Military Academy in Moscow, has been active in the dissident movement since 1961. He was dismissed from the army as a private in 1964 and confined to a mental hospital for 14 months.

Later he took part in protests against the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia and against the trials of writers and intellectuals.

Impeachment Seen Possible For Fortas

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There is a "good possibility" an attempt will be made to impeach Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas unless Fortas clarifies the controversy surrounding him over outside income, according to Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio.

Taft also said that, short of impeachment, a "full blown" congressional investigation of Fortas' affairs was also a possibility.

Life magazine said earlier this week Fortas received, but later returned, a 20,000 fee from the family foundation of the since-imprisoned financier Louis E. Wolfson. Fortas was on the bench at the time he received the fee. Wolfson was under investigation but had not yet been indicted.

Fortas later acknowledged receipt of the fee, but he did not specify the amount or exactly how long he held onto it.

"I have the feeling that, unless he explains further, impeachment is a good possibility," Taft told a news conference Wednesday. He did not specify which member of Congress he thought might file the impeachment action.

In order for a justice to be impeached, a House member would have to file an impeachment resolution. It would go to the Judiciary Committee for consideration and then, if passed by the committee and the House, the party involved would be impeached. An impeachment trial would then be held in the Senate to convict or acquit the person involved. The Constitution provides no penalty other than dismissal from office for those convicted.

New York Gives Welcome To Terence Cardinal Cooke

NEW YORK (AP) — "One's home is where one's heart is, and my heart is here, in the heart of New York," says Terence Cardinal Cooke. "For me, Rome is for a visit, but New York is for a stay."

The 48-year-old prelate spoke Wednesday as he was welcomed back to the city as a prince of the Roman Catholic church.

Cardinal Cooke, once a Bronx parish priest, became archbishop of New York on April 4, 1968, succeeding the late Francis Cardinal Spellman. He flew to Rome this April 27 and was elevated to the rank of Cardinal by Pope Paul VI the next day.

At a news conference, he was asked about the demonstration by black militant James Forman last Sunday which interrupted services at Riverside Church. Forman read a manifesto demanding that predominant white churches pay $500 million in reparations to Negro Americans for injustices suffered during and since the slavery period.

Cardinal Cooke said, "I feel that such a move which disrupts public worship might be a step backward, rather than forward." But he added that, "I think that it is important for all of us to have tremendous understanding and a tremendous desire to help our brothers to help themselves and to provide equal opportunity for all people."

The cardinal sounded his "home is where one's heart is" theme first at Kennedy Airport where he told a welcoming group, "I have come home many times, but this is truly the most wonderful homecoming I have ever had."

Later, in midtown Manhattan, when he moved into the crowds on 57th Street to accept their congratulations, he commented, "There are no smiles like the smiles of New York."

And in his homily at St. Patrick's Cathedral he said he thought of that church "as a symbol of the Church in the world today? A great house of prayer not removed, aloof or isolated from people, but set in the heart of the busy city where people live and work."

At one stop during the day, Cardinal Cooke spoke warmly of his two-day visit in Ireland on his trip home.

"Years ago I was in Ireland as a young priest," he recalled, "and I found I had dozens of cousins. Then when I went as a bishop, I found I had hundreds of cousins. And when I went as a cardinal, I found I had thousands. That's how it is in Ireland."

About 60 per cent of all U.S. voters cast their votes on voting machines, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Identify Man Found Behind Dairy Plant

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (UPI)—The mutilated and beaten body of a man found behind a Dutchess County dairy plant was identified Wednesday as that of Alphonse "Johnny" Jeffs, 68, described by police as a drifter.

Identification was made by matching fingerprints filed from arrests for public intoxication. An autopsy revealed that Jeffs had been sexually mutilated and died as the result of a severe beating.

Edward O'Connor, 28, of the Sherburne remained in custody on a $100,000 bond as a material witness. O'Connor was seen running through the area where Jeffs' body was found Monday, the day of the death, police said.

Ray's Chevrolet Earns AAA Seal

A gold seal of commendation has been awarded by the Automobile Club of New York to Ray Chevrolet in Kingston for its community service in providing a dual control car for students enrolled in the Kingston High School Driver Education Program during the 1968-69 school year.

"This will be the second year we have provided a Chevrolet to the school," an official of Ray's said. "We consider this investment our contribution toward reducing the traffic accident toll."

In a letter to the dealership, Gilbert B. Phillips, Auto Club president, praised the owner of Ray's for his "outstanding community service."

In Ulster county, one out of every two eligible public high school students is enrolled in Driver Education. Studies by the Department of Motor Vehicles show that students taking the course have 22 per cent fewer accidents and 50 per cent fewer violations than those who have not received such instructions.

The AAA pioneered the high school Driver Education Program in 1936. Students receive basic instructions in classroom and behind-the-wheel instruction in a dual control car.

Certificate for Johnson Ford

A certificate of commendation has been awarded by The Automobile Club of New York to Johnson Ford, Inc., Kingston, in recognition of the outstanding community service it has rendered by participating in the Kingston High School Driver Education Program.

Wayne K. Johnson, president of the dealership which has provided a dual control car for use by the school during the current school year, was commended by the Auto Club for making "an important contribution to highway safety."

The high school Driver Education program, pioneered by the AAA since 1936, offers both behind-the-wheel and classroom instruction to teenagers. This year nearly 15,000 high schools in the country are training some 1,900,000 students in complete courses.

Students passing the course, which is offered as an elective subject, receive one-half unit of credit towards graduation and are eligible for a senior operator's license on reaching their 17th birthday and passing the state examination.

Bankers Attend Annual Meeting

Alexander J. McKittrick, executive vice president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, 235 Fair Street, headed a delegation of bank representatives attending the annual meeting of the Southeastern League of Savings and Loan Associations recently at Flo-Jean's, Port Jervis.

More than 180 bankers made reservations for the sessions held under direction of Henry Lapp, executive vice president of the Spring Valley Savings and Loan Association, who served as program chairman.

Business included the formation of a service corporation to process low income housing for Savings and Loan lending. The Cost of Stock Participation was the topic of a panel discussion.

Association recently at Flo-Jean's, Port Jervis.

Robert Hankin of Poughkeepsie represented the Home Builders Association of the Hudson Valley. He outlined the present program of The Registered Home Builder. Mrs. Ethel K. Hornbeck, Cooperative Loan and Savings Society of Port Jervis, was hostess at a cocktail party and dinner.

Guest speaker was Stephen

Slipher, vice president and director of United States Savings and Loan League, Washington, D.C.

Other First Federal employees attending the sessions were William F. Paulus, mortgage officer; Helen E. Schoonmaker, tax and insurance department head, and Barbara Brennan, head teller. McKittrick is secretary-treasurer of the Southeastern League and Robert A. MacKinnon is attorney for the association.

Before that, Lawson had been with IBM for 15 years. After a variety of technical responsibilities, methods engineering, industrial engineering and project managing, he became assistant general manager of the IBM plant in Poughkeepsie.

He was then assigned to establish the IBM plant in Rochester, Minnesota, becoming its general manager. During his last two years with IBM, Lawson was assigned to their Corporate Headquarters in New York City in the position of corporate director of Manufacturing Services.

While in Rochester, Minnesota, Lawson was on the Board of Directors of the Olmstead County Bank and Trust Company. He is presently a member of the Board of Trustees of the Kingston Hospital. He resides in Woodstock with his wife and three children.

As a mutual Savings Bank, the Kingston Savings Bank has no stockholders, but is operated solely in the interests of present and future depositors. It is gov-

Red Hook Bank Has TV Unit

RED HOOK
Lloyd W. Hapeman, executive vice president of the First National Bank of Red Hook, announces the official opening of a new TV Auto Teller unit, the first of its kind to be used in Dutchess County. It represents the most modern method of drive-in banking.

Transactions are carried on via closed television circuits between the customer and teller by use of an underground courier.

Bank officials throughout the state have indicated enthusiasm about the convenience and efficiency of the ultra modern units.

IBM Employee Gets Degree

Announcement has been made that Norbert J. Denil, an advisory programmer at IBM's System's Development Laboratory, Kingston, recently received a doctor of science degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass. Dr. Denil earned his degree under the IBM Resident Study Program.

Dr. Denil joined IBM in March 1963 as a senior associate programmer at the IBM Mohansic Laboratory (Yorktown Heights). In July 1964, he transferred to the SDD Kingston Laboratory as a staff programmer in Graphic Methodology.

From September 1966 through January of this year, Dr. Denil was an advisory programmer at MIT under the IBM Resident Study Program. He received a bachelor of mechanical engineering degree from General Motors Institute, Flint, Mich. While in the IBM Resident Study Program at MIT, Dr. Denil also was awarded a master of science degree and a mechanical engineer degree.

CLAYTON LAMPMAN

Saugerties Resident Honored, 45 Years With Central Hudson

Clayton Lampman of Saugerties has completed his 45th year of service with the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation. He was cited for his long company career by Board Chairman and Chief Executive Officer John Wilkie, who presented him with a service emblem in ceremonies at the company's general offices in Poughkeepsie.

Lampman began his utility career on April 18, 1924, as a groundman with the former United Hudson Electric Corporation, a predecessor company in the Central Hudson System. He served for many years as a member of the Ruby Rod and Gun Club and the Central Hudson Employees Quarter Century Club.

Rhinebeck Demolition Continues

RHINEBECK Demolition will continue through Friday on the Williams Lumberyard brick edifice that will be replaced by the Village of Rhinebeck's $350,000 firehouse-village hall complex.

John Von der Letih entered the only bid to destroy the structure on East Market Street and began the job Monday with heavy equipment. Cost to the village is $7,572, of which $900 is for insurance.

Mayor Peter Sipperley said that the next step would be to make test borings where the architect specified on maps. The architect suggested four firms, the closest of which is in Yonkers. Bids and awarding of the contract for the test borings will have to be made.

Following that, the architect must submit his final plans. Final bids on construction, the major cost, and the construction itself will follow. "This will take about four months," noted Sipperley.

The modern complex was voted into existence in March by village residents, replacing an inadequate and ancient wooden firehouse on West Market Street.

No definite plans exist for the old firehouse. Members of the Rhinebeck Historical Society have expressed an interest in maintaining it as a village museum, housing some of the rich lore and 19th century artifacts which abound in this village.

Others have expressed a desire to tear the building down when the new firehouse is ready.

Awards Dinner
The members of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Arts and Vocational Education Teacher Association will hold the Annual Craftsman of the Year award dinner. At the dinner, the outstanding student of each teacher will receive a certificate of recognition and a free dinner. This year's program will be held on May 15 at 6:30 p.m. at the Ontario Central School, Boiceville.

Guest speakers will be Arthur Dudley, chief of bureau of industrial arts and Emil W. Sticht of New York Telephone Company, who will give a slide-lecture of The Historic Hudson.

Plan Fun Night
The New Paltz Democratic Club is planning a fun night May 16 at the Blue Eagle, Route 299. Games and dancing will start 8:30 p.m.
Tickets may be obtained from committeemen or from members of the buffet-dance planning committee, Norman W. Foster, John Shand, Mildred Hague, Jim McLaughlin and Eric Winkly. Tickets are available also at the Dissemination Consultant Service, 25 North Chestnut Street, next to the New Paltz Post Office.

Five Month Sentences
Arrested several weeks ago by village police, Hayward Terry, 29, of Ellenville, pleaded guilty Tuesday night before Police Justice Ronald Elias to charges of criminal possession of dangerous drugs, fourth degree, and petit larceny. He was sentenced to five months on each charge and Judge Elias directed the sentences are to run concurrently.

Rhinebeck Craft On TV Tonight

RHINEBECK An ABC Television news documentary tonight will feature many of the airplanes at the Old Rhinebeck Aerodrome.

Entitled "Kitty Hawk to Paris," and scheduled from 9 to 10 p.m., the documentary is largely shot at the Rhinebeck airfield and uses the aircraft owned by Cole Palen, owner of the aerodrome. Palen himself flies many of the planes in the film, which was shot last October.

The documentary recreates the early years of aviation, focusing on the accomplishments of 24 years from Wilbur and Orville Wright's first flight in the Kitty Hawk in 1903 to Charles Lindbergh's first non-stop solo flight from New York to Paris across the Atlantic Ocean.

The aerodrome opened this past weekend, and is open every Sunday afternoon for an air show using World War I airplanes.

Larceny Charge

David Leifer, 20, of Highland, was arrested Wednesday afternoon by State Police on Route 44-55 in the Town of Lloyd on a charge of petit larceny involving the alleged theft of $110. Leifer was arraigned before Town Justice Linn Baker who had issued a warrant on complaint of Bernice Watson. She said the money belonging to her had been taken at Club 99 by the defendant. Leifer was committed to the county jail in lieu of $500 bail pending a hearing.

Firemen Douse Garage Blaze

KINGSTON Firemen battled flames that burned through the interior of a metal garage at the rear of 3 North Front Street Wednesday afternoon. The cause of the fire was not determined.

Contents of the structure: cardboard cartons, clothes and furniture, burned in the blaze that was extinguished with pressurized water from Truck 2 and two pump streams from Engine 2. The property is owned by Hubert A. Richter and Seymour Werbaowski, according to fire records.

Railroad Advice

A representative of the Railroad Retirement Board will be at the New York State Employment Office, 16 Pine Grove Avenue on May 14 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

1,411 Fire Calls

Records at the Ulster County Fire Control Center show that a total of 1,411 calls were logged during April. They included 249 fires, 10 mutual aid calls, 57 first alarms, 54 radio or quick call tests, 82 civil defense calls, 30 emergency runs and 7 false alarms.

Ad Correction

A Montgomery Ward advertisement, appearing in the Wednesday, May 7, edition of The Freeman, listed Royal Family Set Corned Ware at a sale price of $10.95, from a regular price of $19.95. The correct sale price is $19.95, from a regular price of $29.95.

Monthly Meeting

Weiner Hose Company 6 will hold its monthly meeting tonight at 8 in the Central Fire Station.

Drug Arrests . . .

"fizzled." "That one was very unorganized," he said. "They had to drop charges on a lot of the kids and reduce them on most of the others. This morning was different. Really well organized. They can't blame the police, they were just doing their job. But no one here was hurting anyone."

There was some bitterness expressed by a few of the students. One asked, "Are they going to pay for all the stuff they tore up? The police made a shambles of the dorm."

All Awaiting Bail

Those arrested appeared before Red Hook Justice Frank B. Martin this morning. All are now in the Dutchess County Jail awaiting for their bail to be posted. They will reappear before Justice Martin on May 17 at 10 a.m. in the Red Hook Town Hall.

State Lands

A public auction of nine parcels of surplus state land in Greene County will be conducted 11 a.m. May 26 at the Greene County Courthouse, Main Street, Catskill. The parcels include five in the Village of Coxsackie, two in the Town of Coxsackie and two in the Town of Catskill. Later in the year other parcels will be sold in Ulster, Washington and Herkimer Counties by the State office of General Services.

Hardwick, Noble Testimonial Set

A retirement dinner in honor of Deputy Chief Robert Hardwick and Firefighter Daniel Noble will be held at the Gov. Clinton Hotel on May 31 with dinner to be served at 8 p.m. The two men are retiring after more than 20 years service with the Kingston Fire Department.

Woodstock News

Open Museum Of Historical Society Sunday

WOODSTOCK this time, both paintings and sculpture, of the early years, 1920's up to the present time. The show is expected to grow both in size and scope, and more paintings will be added this summer. Artists interested in this project should contact Elaine Vincent at the Historical Society, 6 Rock City Road.

The second floor, permanent art museum of Woodstock Historical Society will open Sunday at 4 p.m.

President of the society and town historian, Edgar C. Leary, will host the event and serve punch. There will be about 20 pieces on display at with the opening of the second floor, has a new exhibit of Hudson Valley Artifacts and Indian Relics, collected over the years by the Rev. Harry Christiana and Elmer Carney, this exhibit is worth seeing not only for the contents, but the way in which they are mounted and displayed.

Dancing Classes For Children, Adults Offered

WOODSTOCK on Wylie Lane off Lower Byrdcliffe Road.

Dance classes for children and adult physical fitness classes for women are again being offered by Miss Ruth Ingalls, director of the Creative Arts Camp in Woodstock.

She will be starting a six-week series of classes beginning Monday, May 19 at the Camp

Children's dance classes are held after school from four to five o'clock for groups ages five to seven; ages eight to 10; and ages 11 to 13. Pre-schoolers ages three and four are held on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings.

Adult classes will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 8:30. A Wednesday daytime class is also being arranged.

For further details and registration for the dance classes, please call Lottie Kittner and if interested in learning more about the camp, call Miss Ingalls.

Plan Vision Screening

WOODSTOCK Woodstock P.T.A. is sponsoring a preschool vision screening on Saturday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at Woodstock School.

All children ages three to five are welcome to attend.

This is screening for the "lazy eye" or amblyopia which can be treated successfully if detected before the child reaches school age.

The screen is a simple procedure which is thoroughly enjoyed by the children participating. The testing will again be done by a group of P.T.A. volunteers headed by Mrs. Alfred Ostrander and Mrs. Howard Humphries. The P.T.A. group is under the direction of the Ulster County Preschool Vision Pro-

PLAN SEASON GALA — A Roaring Twenties party scheduled May 17 at 9 p. m. by Woodstock Artists Association is in the planning stage here. The 50th season gala will be held at the Woodstock Artists Gallery. Discussing plans are (L-R) Cecile Forman, Fritzie Striebel and Tommy Beere.

For Legislature Tonight

Foe of Food Stamps

By LYNN MULVANEY
KINGSTON

An attempt to lick the food stamp program or at least have it modified will be made tonight when Mrs. Barbara Bonesteel of Saugerties appears before the Ulster County Legislature to present her lay committee's views on the new plan.

A Saugerties Neighborhood Service Center worker, Mrs. Bonesteel will address the legislative body at 8 p.m. as a representative of a group of persons presently receiving surplus food. Her committee does not wish to have to abandon participation in the present program and does not favor the food stamp program as a substitute — a plan which allows eligible persons to obtain, with cash, stamps whose redeemable value exceeds the amount spent for them.

Seen Hardship

Mrs. Bonesteel will argue that the plan will exert a hardship on recipients because they will have to lay out the full amount of cash required for a month's supply of stamps all at once.

If, she says, the food stamp plan must be employed, then she suggests that persons buying stamps be allowed to purchase them every other week or weekly.

Otherwise, she says, "It would be hard for these people to get up the money all at once."

Ulster County is one of four counties in the Mid-Hudson Valley to implement the program in the next few months, with the local date effective set for June 1.

The Federal Surplus Food Stamp Program, which has been in effect for several years, will be discontinued after the May distribution of food is made.

Steps toward adopting the food stamp plan were begun about three years ago by the Ulster County Legislature.

Mrs. Bonesteel will also ask that the food surplus program not be stopped until "we are reassured" that the food stamp program goes fully underway.

She also objects to the plan on the basis that she feels it "identifies" poverty and particularly feels it may affect the elderly people who are not presently on welfare but who do receive surplus food. Mrs. Bonesteel feels many will drop out rather than use the stamps.

Taking a survey of 25 out of 44 persons in Saugerties now receiving surplus foods, she found that all but one objected to the food stamp plan. Numbered among the 44 were 10 on welfare, seven on social security and 27 with low income.

Similar objections to the stamp plan were aired at a meeting in Ellenville last week under the auspices of the Ulster County Community Action Committee.

DUNCAN WILSON

Deputy Fire Coordinator

Expect Appointment by County Board

KINGSTON — Woodstock Fire Chief Duncan Wilson is expected to be appointed third deputy county fire coordinator tonight.

The appointment will be made by resolution at tonight's County Legislature meeting. He will join the staff of Ray Morris of New Paltz, county fire coordinator; Greg Greer of Walker Valley is first deputy and Wesley Clark of Port Ewen is second deputy.

Wilson's territory will include the Towns of Saugerties, Hurley, Woodstock, Olive and Shandaken. He will be in charge of all Mutual Aid calls in those townships. A county two-way radio will be installed in his car. He will retain his post as Woodstock fire chief.

Wilson, a resident of Bearsville, came to the Town of Woodstock in 1955 and joined Woodstock Fire Company No. 1. He moved up the chain of command in the fire company and has been fire chief of the department with four companies for the past four years.

A dedicated volunteer fireman, he has attended many training schools and maintains an excellent record of performance in his department.

A spokesman of the Woodstock Fire Department said Chief Wilson is one of the most dedicated men in the volunteer service. He is continually improving himself by attending schools and training centers and is almost always available for consultation on problems in any of the four companies comprising the department. He attends practically all of the monthly meetings of the companies and often is in attendance at individual drills. He also holds sessions with the line officers of the four companies and keeps in close touch with the fire commissioners of the township, the spokesman concluded.

River Span Traffic, 'Take' Gain

POUGHKEEPSIE — Traffic and revenue continue to increase on the five bridges spanning the Mid-Hudson River, a New York Bridge Authority spokesman announced today.

The authority also noted that a section of Interstate Route 84 from the Taconic Parkway to Brewster was opened early last month and this has led to increased traffic over the Newburgh-Beacon Bridge. In addition, commercial traffic is now allowed on Rt. 84, further increasing traffic over the Newburgh Bridge.

That commercial traffic played a part in raising the Newburgh-Beacon Bridge to the top of the list in revenues, with a total of $114,254 for the month of April compared to $97,369 for April of last year.

The Mid-Hudson Bridge at Poughkeepsie is still the traffic leader with 426,617 vehicles crossing in April compared to 410,195 for the Newburgh-Beacon Bridge.

The Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge showed an increase of 7,797 over last April to bring the total for the month to 174,589 vehicles and a revenue of $46,527.

The Rip Van Winkle Bridge at Catskill showed an increase of 3,715 vehicles over April of 1968 for a total of 126,661 for this April. Revenue for the bridge was $38,398 for April of 1969.

Overall, the five bridges handled 1,320,103 vehicles in April for a total of $356,467 in revenues, an increase of 7.73 per cent in traffic and 7.97 in revenue.

2 Upstaters Killed in Viet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department Wednesday reported the deaths of two upstate New York servicemen in Vietnam.

The Pentagon said Army Pfc. Joseph T. Murphy Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Murphy Sr., of Glens Falls, Warren on Gorge Road, County, was killed in action. Marine Cpl. Raymond H. Brodie Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Brodie Sr., of Middleburg, Schoharie County, was identified as having died as the result of non-hostile causes.

Murphy lived on Route 3, Massachusetts Ave., and Brodie was identified as having died as the result of non-hostile causes.

Sloop Launching May 17, To Visit River Communities

COLD SPRING
A full-size replica of the Hudson River sloop, a type of sailing craft important to the early development of New York State, will be launched Saturday, May 17 at South Bristol, Me.

Gov. Curtis of Maine, folk singer Pete Seeger, chairman of the sloop group, and Cyrus Hamlin of Kennebunk, Me., noted naval architect and designer of the ship, will participate in launching ceremonies scheduled for 12 noon at the Harvey F. Gamage Shipyard in South Bristol. Gov. Curtis has officially extended an invitation to New York's Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller to take part in launching festivities. The public is invited to attend.

A Living Museum
A project of the Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Inc., its president, Alexander Saunders Jr., said, "The 100-ton, 76½ foot vessel will continually sail the 160-mile Hudson River visiting all its communities. Named 'Clearwater,' Saunders noted that the ship will be many things: an attraction to bring people to the Hudson River's edge to see its beauty and its pollution, a living museum to teach the heritage from the river region of southeastern New York, as well as being an entertainment and recreational facility."

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, just weeks before he died, sent word of his support of the conservation project after viewing a (CBS) network television report on the ship. Mr. Eisenhower said, "This effort to clean up the Hudson was one of the best stories I have seen on television in a long time."

Volunteer Crews

When the "Clearwater" is commissioned she will sail under the command of Captain Allan Aunapu and with volunteer crews from river communities. Sailing trials will be conducted in cooperation with the U. S. Coast Guard in June and the craft will arrive July 31 in New York City after a fund-raising tour down the New England coast. The sloop will then sail upriver to visit the state's capitol city of Albany and begin her winter berth at the South Street Restoration site at the tip of Manhattan.

Patterns' Speaker for Regional Meet

NEW PALTZ

Edward J. Logue, the former New Haven and Boston redevelopment specialist, and now president of the New York State Urban Development Corporation, will be the principal speaker at a major regional conference being sponsored by Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress.

The day-long session is scheduled for Wednesday, May 21, at the State University College at New Paltz, and is expected to draw more than 500 civic and governmental leaders from the Mid-Hudson's seven counties — Columbia, Dutchess, Orange, Greene, Putnam, Sullivan and Ulster.

Pattern for Progress, a citizen's regional planning and development corporation serving these counties, is building its conference on the theme: "Agenda for Regional Action: Six Major Issues Confronting the Mid-Hudson Today."

In addition to Logue, who will give the luncheon address, several prominent regional and local leaders will be examining, during the morning session, such crucial concerns to the Mid-Hudson's future development as:

The Concerns

The renewal and growth of the region's cities and suburbs; Providing adequate housing for all income levels;

Meeting the growing competition for dependable water supplies;

The region's needs in higher education;

Shaping growth through transportation;

The crisis in financing public services.

Logue, who will be drawing these various elements into a comprehensive framework, is one of the leading urban planners and redevelopment specialists in the country, and ably qualified to discuss the modern problems of the cities and suburbs, at both the national scale, and as they affect the Mid-Hudson region.

Last spring, Logue took over as president of the newly-formed State Urban Development Corporation (UDC), which is geared to creating public and private partnerships for rebuilding the state's cities. State-wide, UDC is authorized to issue at least $1-billion in self-liquidating state bonds, which in turn is expected to generate

Recover Body Of Seminarian, Feb. Tragedy

MOUNT MORRIS, N.Y. (AP) — Letchworth State Park officials have recovered the body of the second of two seminarians who fell more than 100 feet to their deaths in the frozen Genesee River gorge in early February.

The body of Martin Hanak, 19, of Nyack, was recovered Wednesday about five miles down river from where he died on Feb. 8 by a park crew searching the river in a boat.

The body of Merlin Nosbisch, 19, of New Hampton, Iowa, was discovered Sunday by a hiker.

Both young men were students at the Divine Word Roman Catholic Seminary.

High winds and treacherous ice clinging to the sides of the gorge prevented attempts to recover the bodies during the winter months.

EDWARD J. LOGUE

another $5-billion in private investment.

By filling the gap between the many federally-aided programs and the normal operations of private enterprise, UDC hopes to provide the housing and new industrial and commercial development which the private sector cannot supply alone.

First in Newburgh

With the assistance of Pattern for Progress and other state and local interests, UDC launched its first program in Newburgh — a $60-million redevelopment program which is concentrating on renewing the downtown business district, and providing varied-income housing and new industrial development in another section of the city.

Pattern for Progress officials, in addition to serving on a special UDC citizens advisory committee in Newburgh, are continuing to work closely with UDC in the implementation of its Newburgh program, and are also helping that organization to formulate plans to aid other Mid-Hudson cities.

Prior to assuming the presidency of UDC, Logue earned a national reputation through his direction of massive redevelopment programs in New Haven and Boston between 1954 and 1967. He stepped down as administrator of the Boston Redevelopment Authority in 1967, after seven years in that post, to run unsuccessfully for mayor of Boston.

Garnet Becomes Official Gem Of Empire State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The garnet, a precious stone ranging in color from deep red to brown and black and sometimes yellow and green, today becomes the official gem of New York State.

Gov. Rockefeller signed a bill Wednesday making the designation. It was sponsored by Sen. Ronald B. Stafford of Peru and Assemblyman Clarence D. Lane of Windham.

The garnet is found in at least 34 counties in the state, the lawmakers said. The largest garnet in the world, Stafford added, is at North Creek in the Adirondacks.

The state already as an official flower, the rose, and an official tree, the sugar maple.

West Germany's Mark Now in Great Demand

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—West Germany's deutchmark was the most sought after money in the world today because of chances its value would be increased.

Financiers and gamblers hoping for a windfall bought up to $400 million worth of marks Wednesday in a surge one trader termed a "Niagara."

The rush to buy marks with other currencies, particularly with dollars and pounds, is in anticipation that West Germany will be forced to raise the mark's value.

Could Sell for More — If that occurs, speculators who bought marks for Wednesday's price of 3.97 to the dollar could turn around and sell them for more.

The governing council of West Germany's Central Bank, the Bundesbank, was meeting today in its regular biweekly session and it was certain that a revaluation would be the prime topic.

The mark is the strongest Western currency today, largely because of West Germany's tremendous trade imbalance. It exports so much more than it imports that the German economy is overvalued and the mark undervalued.

Revaluation, without devaluation of other currencies, would help realign Germany's economy and currency with the rest of the world and promote financial stability, economists believe.

Such a move would have global implications. West Germany would risk pricing itself out of foreign trade markets, since its products would cost more. The dollar and other currencies would gain strength since fewer would be sold for more stable monies.

Reluctant to Revalue — Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's government is reluctant to revalue without simultaneous readjustments in other currency values, notably the French franc. Kiesinger's regime fears a political backlash at the polls next September.

Much of the current problem is due to the franc. When turmoil erupted in France a year ago, the French economy suffered heavily due to the prolonged strikes and drops in exports. That made the franc weaker, and traders undermined it more by selling it for the strong mark.

Then President Charles de Gaulle refused to devalue and some stability returned to international finances.

Jonas Jacobs, Aaron Cohen, Aaron Hymes, Jacob Greenwald and Ida Baker. An Oneg Shabbat will be held in Rabbi Bloom Memorial Hall.

The last session of beginner's Hebrew will be held Monday 8 p.m.

Woodlands Fire Burns 7 Acres Near Ellenville

NEW PALTZ — Flames that erupted near a plant on Oak Ridge Road near Ellenville swept out of control Tuesday afternoon, and burned through woodlands blackening about seven acres, according to Forest Ranger William H. Sussdorf.

Rangers Herbert Lepke, Peter Fish and William Morse, worked with local volunteer fire units and wardens to check the spread of the balze which was reported shortly after 2:30 p.m.

Sussdorf also said that a survey taken by Department of Conservation men showed that a forest fire on Sunday swept over some 80 acres of the forest reserve on High Point Mountain in the Town of Olive. Water drops from airplanes were used to aid ground crews that comprised 100 men in extinguishing the fire.

A helicopter was used for surveillance purposes during the height of the blaze. Ranger Morse was in charge of the firefighters at the scene.

Dapson Named Bank President

RHINEBECK — Donald S. Dapson was re-elected president of the Rhinebeck Savings Bank at a recent meeting.

Others re-elected were Richard L. Battenfeld, first vice-president; S. Richard Lloyd, second vice-president; Theodore Platzer, treasurer; Marie Edson, secretary; Ralph O. Haskins, assistant treasurer; and Marjorie B. Brooks, assistant secretary.

Health for All

Dots and Dashes

From Health Front

SPANKING OFFENSE — Even LSD has its defenders, but Dr. James Goddard isn't among them. The former U. S. Food and Drug Commissioner recently dubbed that psychedelic drug the "most dangerous" he knows of, and said those who use it for nonmedical purposes deserve "whatever spanking society has ordained."

DENTITIONAL GAP — The fact is plain and ruthless that America's going "toothless," according to Dr. Paul A. Miller, a San Antonio, Tex., dentist. He points to surveys of the American Dental Association and the U. S. Public Health Service, which indicate that about 50 million of us are now wearing fabricated teeth.

TENDER LOVING CARE? — Women doctors in the U. S. totaled 18,537 in 1966 — the latest verified figure — according to the American Medical Women's Association. This amounts to 6.5 per cent of all physicians in the country — third lowest ratio in the world. Britain has 25 per cent, Russia about 65 per cent.

WHEN DOCTORS AGREE — About 100,000 American physicians who formerly smoked cigarettes have quit. For some reasons why doctors and others give up smoking, ask your local Christmas Seal association for its free leaflet, "Cigarette, the Facts."

GOOD BABY NEWS — Infant mortality continues to decline at a slow but steady pace, the U. S. Public Health Service notes. Rate for the first 11 months of 1968 was 21.5 per thousand live births, compared to 22.1 for the same period of 1967. November showed a healthy gain of 7.6 per cent against the previous year. However, the U. S. performance remains poorer than those of 12 other lands.

Finds Skeleton Of Male Indian

LA JOLLA, Calif. (UPI)—A restaurant owner digging beneath his patio unearthed the skeleton of a male Indian that scientists believe is 6,000 years old.

John Katzenstein, co-owner of the Top O' the Cove, said the Indian was buried on his left side with his head toward the East and his face toward the South.

That would make this fellow about 6,000 years old," said James Moriarity, professor of anthropology at the University of San Diego. "The La Jolla culture practiced this form of burial."

MRS. ROBERT W. McBENNETT
(Lakeside Studio)

Nelson - McBennett Nuptials

Miss Gayle F. Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Nelson of Glenrie, Route 3, Box 276, Saugerties, exchanged nuptial vows with Robert W. McBennett, stepson and son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Deyo, respectively, of Route 2, Box 399, West Saugerties, Sunday, Apr. 27, at St. Mary's of the Snow Church in Saugerties.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles Kaufmann officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Charles D. Dickman, organist, accompanied Mrs. John Nau who sang traditional wedding selections. Vases of white gladioli and pompons decorated the altar and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an organza and Chantilly lace over silk-taffeta gown styled with a fitted basque bodice, scalloped lace neckline, and long organza sleeves. The full skirt was accented with a cascade of ruffles and lace edging on the front of the organza skirt. A detachable diamond-cut train of organza also featured lace insets. Her bouffant veil of French illusion was fastened to a cluster of organza and lace flowers, and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and miniature carnations; centered with a detachable white orchid.

Mrs. Arline Krusher of Saugerties was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a lemon chiffon, empire-styled gown fashioned with a circle neckline, long sheer sleeves and an A-line skirt. A matching headpiece held her flirtation veiling and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and orchid carnations.

Bridesmaids were the Misses June and Joan Celli, and Theresa Mattera, all of Saugerties. They wore lilac chiffon gowns similar in styling to that of the honor attendant and they carried cascade bouquets of yellow carnations.

Debbie Krusher, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. She wore a lemon chiffon gown styled similarly to those of the other attendants and carried a small cascade bouquet of yellow and orchid carnations.

John McBennett of Watertown, Conn., was best man for his brother, Ushers were Howard France, Calvin Wiltshire, and Russell Spring, all of Connecticut and brothers-in-law of the bridegroom.

After the wedding, a reception for more than 100 guests was held at Flamingo Restaurant in Saugerties. Guests attended from Saugerties, Dumont, Glasco, Mt. Marion, Cmenton, Rhinebeck, Hyde Park, Bearsville, Chatham, St. Johnsville, Kingston, Catskill, Highland, Bronx, Rifton, Cossackie, Bergenfield, Clifton, N.J.; Pompano Beach, Fla.; Wolcott, Terryville, Watertown, Bethlehem, Bantam, Conn.

For her wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the bride wore a blue knit traveling suit with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Saugerties High School and Richard the First School of Beauty Culture of Kingston. She is employed with Janice's Beauty Salon, Rhinebeck.

Her husband, an alumnus of Saugerties High School, served with the U.S. Army in Vietnam, and is employed by Ferroxcube Corporation of America at Mt. Marion.

The couple will reside at Route 3, Box 280, Saugerties.

Patricia Crego Takes Marriage Vows Here

Miss Patricia Joan Crego, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Crego of 777 Lincoln Park Place, Kingston, exchanged nuptial vows with Charles Raymond Stopczynski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester W. Stopczynski of 771 Lincoln Park Place, Kingston, on Saturday, April 12, at St. Catherine Labour Church, Lake Katrine.

The Rev. William J. Amiraull celebrated the Nuptial Mass and officiated at the double ring ceremony. Traditional wedding selections were provided by the church organist. White Easter lilies decorated the altar along with a basket arrangement of assorted white flowers including chrysanthemums and gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white lace cage-silhouette gown with long lace sleeves and stand-up ruffled lace collar. A white satin bow held her short nylon veil and she carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses and white daisies.

Sharon Louise Winterbourne, cousin of the bride, Rockville, Md., was honor attendant. She wore a white lace over blue satin gown, fashioned in the semi-fitted princess line with short sleeves and round neckline. A blue lace headpiece held her matching veil and she carried a bouquet of yellow daisies. Attendants were Theresa Antonine Stopczynski, sister of the bridegroom, Kingston, and Barbara Ann Fusco, Saugerties. Their yellow and white gowns and yellow headpieces were fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant and they carried bouquets of blue daisies.

John P. Belsito of Lincoln Park Place, Kingston, was best man. Ushers were John Crego, brother of the bride; Gary Lovenguth, step-brother of the bride; both of Kingston; and John Tornbloom, Utica.

After the wedding, a reception for 90 guests was held at Elmer's Inn, Ruby.

For her wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains, Pennsylvania, the bride selected an A-line skirt and matching cape of pale grey wool with pink blouse and accessories.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, is attending evening sessions at Ulster County Community College, and is employed as bookkeeper for Savings and Loan Association of Kingston.

Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School and the Office Appliance Mechanics Institute at Springfield, Mo., is employed by Sylvester Typewriter Sales and Service. The couple will reside at Hyde Away Trailer Park, this city.

MRS. JOHN F. LaLIMA (Lakeside Studio)

Patricia Hager Weds John F. LaLima

St. Mary's Church, Kingston, was the setting Sunday, April 20, for the wedding of Miss Patricia Diane Hager, Santee, Calif., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Hager, to John Francis LaLima, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LaLima of Groff Street, this city.

The Rev. John Farley officiated at the double ring ceremony. Traditional wedding selections were provided by organist, Theodore Riccobona. Baskets of white gladioli decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by the bridegroom's brother-in-law, Norman Caunitz, the bride wore a cocktail length gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta. The gown was fashioned in the princess line with fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves, a scalloped neckline, and lace roses of self-lace fabric on the hem of the skirt. A crown of seed pearls and crystals held her triple-tiered silk illusion veil and she carried a nosegay of white carnations.

Mrs. Joseph LaLima, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. She wore a cocktail length gown of blue chiffon. A stylized headpiece held her short flirtation veil and she carried a bouquet of white carnations with a blue bow.

Joseph LaLima, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Warren Vinning of Kingston was usher and Michael LaLima, brother of the bridegroom, was junior usher.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

For her wedding trip to New York City, the bride selected a navy blue sheath with accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Santano High School in California and attended Gross Mount College. Her husband attended Kingston High School and is now serving in the U.S. Navy, stationed aboard the USS Canberra where he is a fireman boiler technician.

The couple will reside at San Diego, Calif.

Look Here! Homemaker

An area of household textiles that is changing is sheets and pillowcases, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist. There are three main types of sheets: Muslin, Percale, and Permanent Press.

MUSLIN is light weight, looser in weave than percale, coarse, strong, long wearing and the least expensive sheet on the market.

PERCALE has a high thread count smooth-feel, close even weave, is extremely strong and durable. Is light weight and easy to launder, and is priced slightly higher than muslin.

DURABLE PRESS is made in two types, both Percale and Muslin. This kind of sheet is light weight, feels soft and smooth, dries quickly with no ironing, remains unwrinkled in use, and is generally 20 per cent higher in price than other sheets.

Know what size sheet will fit your bed. The width and length of the sheet is given in inches. The sheet size is stated before hemming. On Muslin and Percale sheets, subtract 6" for shrinkage. This will give you the length of the sheet after hemming and after laundering.

Flat sheets are sized to fit each bed. If you do not know the size of your bed start with a measuring tape. Standard interspring mattress sizes are: Twin 39"x75"; Double 54"x75"; Queen 60"x80"; King 72"x84"; Dual King 78"x80"; Long Dual King 78"x84".

Muslin and Percale fitted sheets are preshrunk. The fabric shrinkage should be less than one per cent. Durable Press fitted sheets are preshrunk with maximum fabric shrinkage of two per cent. Fabric shrinkage should be stated on the label.

A sheet's hardest wear results from constant wrapping or flexing lightly around a mattress; twisting and turning by the sleeper, and pulling and agitating in laundering.

Because sheets wear longer if they are changed often and rotated in use, a minimum of six sheets per bed is recommended: two sheets on the bed, two sheets in the laundry, and two sheets in the linen closet. A third sheet between the blanket and bedspread is often used to protect the blanket.

White sheets and pillowcases should be washed in hot water. Colored sheets and pillowcases in warm water. Deep tone colored sheets and pillowcases should be laundered before they are used to avoid possible discoloration of mattress pads or light colored blankets. Launder durable press sheets and pillowcases as you would all cotton. Cold water rinse and fabric softener added to the final rinse helps to eliminate wrinkles.

Drying of your no-iron bedding requires special attention. For best results, dry them in a dryer and remove as soon as they are dry.

MRS. RICHARD G. WHITAKER (Carlock Studio)

Gail Bogardus Wed In New Jersey Church

Miss Gail Bogardus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earle E. Bogardus of 248 South Central Avenue, Ramsey, N.J., exchanged nuptial vows with Richard G. Whitaker, Bridgeport, Conn., son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Whitaker, of 218 Greenkill Avenue, Kingston, Saturday, April 26, at St. Paul's Church, Ramsey, N.J.

The Rev. Father McDevitt officiated at the double ring ceremony. Traditional wedding selections were provided. White gladioli and daisies decorated the altar and white bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin and Chantilly lace, fashioned with a scalloped lace neckline, long lace sleeves, empire waistline and a controlled skirt. She carried a bouquet of miniature white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Miss Ruth Bogardus of Ramsey, N.J. was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a floor length gown of French turquoise linen and chiffon, fashioned with a rolled collar. She carried a bouquet of yellow daisies and orange carnations.

Attendants were Mrs. Thomas J. Pendell, Kingston, sister of the bridegroom; Louise Hollander, Ridgewood, N.J.; and Eleanor Swan, Ramsey, N.J. Their gowns were fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant.

John F. Whitaker of Spring Street, Kingston, was best man for his brother. Ushers were William Winter, Burlington, Vt.; Peter Donlon, West Hartford, Conn.; and Thomas Ryan, Kingston.

After the wedding, a reception for 80 guests was held at Club Seventeen, Ramsey, N.J.

For her wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains, Pennsylvania, the bride selected a navy A-line dress with dark blue accessories.

The bride, a graduate of Ramsey High School and Dutchess County Community College, was employed as a recreational director at Bergen County Children's Home in New Jersey.

Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, Dutchess County Community College, and Murray State University at Murray, Ky., where he was a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, served three years with the U.S. Army in France and is employed by Drive-In Management Corporation Norwalk, Conn.

The couple will reside at 2600 Park Avenue, Bridgeport, Conn.

Exchange Vows

Miss F. Paula Farino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farino of 12 Adams Court, Pearl River, exchanged nuptial vows with Robert Loeffler, son of Robert Loeffler of 31 Lindsley Avenue, this city, on Saturday, April 26 at St. Margaret's Church, Pearl River.

The Rev. Thomas McCaffrey officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a silk ottoman gown fashioned with a high neckline and featuring lace accents on the long sleeves and on the edge of the gown. It was styled in the A-Line and had a chapel train. She carried a stylized bouquet of white stephanotis and orchids.

Miss Anita Kay Colgrove of St. Louis, Mo., cousin of the bride, served as honor attendant. Bridesmaids were the Misses Gergette Doran, Salisbury Mills; Gwen Alabaster, Briarcliff Manor; Betty Lou Damato, Clifton, N. J. They carried stylized bouquets of green orchids and ivy foliage.

Danny Loeffler of Kingston was best man for his brother. Ushers were Anthony Filoreto, Poughkeepsie; Gerry Dempsey, Kingston; and Larry Roque of New Rochelle.

A reception for 100 guests was held after the ceremony at Jerry Villa's, Montvale.

The bride is a graduate of Fanwood School, White Plains, and Westchester Business Institute. She is employed as a key punch operator at Volkswagen in Orangeburg.

Her husband, an alumnus of Fanwood School, works as a computer operator for First City National Bank in New York City.

When the couple return from their wedding trip to Washington, D. C., they will reside at 154 Meyer Oval, Pearl River.

MRS. RONALD DOUGLAS KUNDA (Lakeside Studio)

Chyzik-Kunda Wedding Announced

Miss Kathleen Marie Chyzik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chyzik, Mt. View Avenue, Tillson, became the bride of Ronald Douglas Kunda, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kunda, 19 Musselman Drive, Poughkeepsie, on Saturday, May 3, at St. Peter's Church, Rosendale.

The Rev. Father Saccaman celebrated the Nuptial Mass and officiated at the double ring ceremony. Howard Houghtaling, organist, accompanied Joe Liguori who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of white gladioli and white pompons decorated the altar and white satin ribbons marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a sheath style gown with a skimmer type organza cage, enhanced with Venice lace banding. The tubular Watteau train was chapel length and her headdress was an organza bow to which was attached a full length mantilla, edged with matching lace. She carried a cascade of white carnations, yellow sweetheart roses and yellow ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Clare Chyzik, sister-in-law of the bride, Hyde Park, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of maize dotted Swiss, encircled at the Empire waist with silk floral braid. She wore a hat of nylon braid with a pompon in matching color, and carried a cascade of white carnations, yellow sweetheart roses and yellow ribbon streamers.

Attendants were the Misses Grace Christensen, Tillson; Dorothy Klocke, New Paltz; and Kathy Sheehan, Lake Katrine. Their pale aquamarine gowns were styled identically to that of the honor attendant's and they carried colonial bouquets of white and yellow sweetheart roses with aqua ribbon streamers.

Maribeth Chyzik served as flower girl for her sister. Her aquamarine gown was fashioned similarly to that of the other attendants and she carried a princess basket of white and yellow California marguerites with aqua ribbon streamers.

Andrew K. Kunda, Putnam Drive, Hyde Park, was best man for his brother. Ushers were John Francis Chyzik, brother of the bride, Hyde Park; Robert E. Makas, Saugerties; and Francis Grobowski, Claverack. Jeffrey Michael Chyzik, brother of the bride, Tillson, was junior usher.

After the wedding a formal candle light reception for 120 guests was held at Capri "400" Restaurant, Port Ewen.

For her traveling ensemble the bride selected a three-piece powder blue ensemble with navy accessories and wore a white orchid corsage. The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School and is employed by the Hall of Records, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. She teaches music part-time.

Kunda is an alumnus of Hudson High School. He served with the U. S. Armed Forces and spent 18 months in Vietnam. He received the Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry, and is employed by the State of New York National Bank, Poughkeepsie.

The couple will reside at 124 Hardenburg Avenue, Tillson.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: Have you ever thought about how inexpensive wax paper is? And sometimes you happen to run out of paper bags from the grocery store? I just tear of a little bit of wax paper and put it in the bottom of my wastebaskets in the bedrooms, etc.

You will be surprised how easy these are to empty. And, I find the wax paper can be used more than once when emptying those baskets.

Hanna Trambell

Dear Heloise: You're just a livin' doll to send along this hint.

Glory be, if I had only known that years ago, think how many wastebaskets you would have saved me washing.

Bless you! For those who don't have wax paper, try using (after splitting the sides) a bread wrapper in the bottom of the basket.

Dear Heloise:

This may be a helpful idea for anyone who has a puppy that is still in the paper training stage.

Just put a piece of old shower curtain under the newspapers. This really avoids dampness and keeps the newspaper from staining the floor.

Besides, the old plastic shower curtain can be easily cleaned. Just hang it on the line and squirt with the hose.

An Animal Lover

Dear Heloise:

A good temporary crib bumper can be made by taking an extra crib blanket or even a larger sized blanket, folding it lengthwise in accordion pleats, and securing it by "lacing" it into the corner slats of the crib side.

Nancy

Dear Heloise:

Has anyone ever thought to put several drops of oil of wintergreen in the corner of their refrigerator?

Sure smells nice. 'Specially since it's so inexpensive.

Pearl Wong

Bless you, Pearl. I never heard of that before.

While cleaning mine out last week, I tried it. After pouring a few drops on the bottom, I took a wet sponge and wiped away over the entire bottom. Great.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Just read the darling idea of putting recipes on tile. Here is another use for them.

If you don't have wall space to hang your tiles, cover the bottom of the ceramic tile with protective felt and use the tiles for hot dish pads!

This is a cute idea for children to make as they could use decals on them.

Any grandmother would adore them, especially if they came from those precious grandchildren.

RVTA Scholarship Winners

Word has been received from three young women of the Kerhonkson area, all of whom are studying in the field of teaching. Each is a previous winner of a Rondout Valley Teacher's Association Scholarship. For over six years these scholarships have provided help for student studying to become teachers.

Miss Frances Black is in her freshman year at the State University of New York at Albany. Her interests include tutoring a student from the Albany ghetto area. She feels that her college experience has been most rewarding both in formal education and in the area of personal independence and growth.

Miss Shirley Cox is presently a graduate student at Southern Connecticut State College majoring in library science. After receiving her BS degree she became employed at the college as a Librarian.

Miss Carla Dembo, a 1965 graduate of Rondout Valley, is attending the State University College of New York at Buffalo where she is majoring in Exceptional Children Education-Mental Retardation. Her many activities include serving as a Resident Assistant for two years. Miss Dembo was honored by being awarded a Federal Traineeship for senior year study in her field.

The Rondout Valley Teachers Association is proud of these past winners and is continuing to raise funds to provide future scholarships. The main source of this income is from the faculty play given each year in the spring. This year's production is Flower Drum Song and will be presented on May 15, 16, and 17th. All in the community are urged to support this scholarship fund and enjoy a night of good theatre by attending Flower Drum Song on May 15, 16, or 17.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Criticism on High Heels Unwarranted

Dear Mrs. Post: I am enclosing a picture of my daughter and her husband on their wedding day. Our daughter is slightly taller than her husband. I have had a great deal of criticism that she should not have worn high heels. Actually they were very low but narrow. She looked taller than him because of the heels, hair-do, and veil. But I cannot understand why that is so important. They are so very happy together. Why do people get so petty about things like this? — Ruby.

Dear Ruby: Your friends had no business criticizing your daughter. What she wore was entirely her business, and furthermore, the slight difference in height was totally unimportant. A slender heel is far more flattering and graceful to someone who is a little bit heavy than "flats." I was delighted to see, in the picture you sent me, that your daughter held herself proudly, looked her prettiest, and most of all the couple looked so happy.

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently my husband was away for two weeks. During this time I was alone with two small children without a car. Where I live the nearest grocery store is three miles away. A man friend of ours called me every day to make sure I was all right and asked me if I needed anything. If I did, he would bring it over. I would like to repay this man for his kindness but don't know what would be proper as he is married. I don't know whether his wife knows that he has been taking care of us, or not, and I am embarrassed to ask.

Can you suggest some way to repay this man without getting him into trouble with his wife? I have heard that she is a very jealous woman.

— Donna
Dear Donna: You cannot possibly send the man alone a gift or otherwise repay him personally without causing trouble. The best way to handle it is to send a gift addressed to both husband and wife — something for their home that she will enjoy as much as he. Enclose a friendly, impersonal note from you and your husband explaining how much you appreciated his help and saying that you would like to have them over now that your husband has returned.

And next time your husband must go away, insist that he make some arrangements for your transportation during his absence, or you'll find yourself in an awkward situation again.

drunk with a teaspoon. As a host I kept quiet. Was he right? — Bob

Dear Bob: No, he wasn't right. Juice from a roast or steak should not be wasted, but it is eaten by sopping it up with a piece of the meat or a piece of bread broken into pieces and eaten with the fork.

Married Attendants at Bridal Table

Dear Mrs. Post: I am having a sit-down dinner at my reception. One of my bridesmaids is married. Where should she sit—at my table or with her husband at one of the guest's tables? — Terry.

Dear Terry: Married attendants sit at the bridal table, and whenever possible their husbands or wives are seated there also.

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

What are the college girls wearing these days? A copy of the Alumni Bulletin of my college, one of the half dozen more prestigious of women's Eastern schools, provides in a series of photographs of young women on campus the answer to this question.

Hair: mostly long and what, in my day, would have been called stringy. At least no waves, no curls, no braids, certainly no bows. Just hair, parted in the middle and falling over the shoulders. A few girls had short hair, thick, plain, page-boyish. One had a handsome African hair dress, a splendid ball of hair around the face.

Footgear: sandals with bare feet and legs, Indian moccasins, desert boots, loafers, black patent leather knee boots, stiff heelless slippers that looked Japanese.

Outer clothing: the shawl was very popular, long, fringed, wool, or hand knit. There were capes, knee length or to the ankles; long jackets, short jackets, tight jackets, loose jackets, leather jackets, waist length Eisenhower jackets. Not in sight was what I would call a top coat, just a coat, to the knees, with buttons down the front.

There were a couple of very mini skirts, one skirt to the ankles, but mostly pants; dungarees, of course, bell-bottomed pants very common, some of plaid material. There were also tight pants, baggy pants, and a grey flannel pants suit with a Norfolk jacket.

One girl was very demure, with long hair, her books hugged to her chest, and her whole body wrapped in a man's cape that nearly touched the ground.

All of these young creatures looked very serious, as if they were about to enter an advanced math class or were to take an exam in the history of the universe. None of them seemed to me beautiful in spite of the fact that they were young, which is the greatest aid to beauty.

The trouble was that every last one of them looked as though she had got up in a hurry in the dark, thrown on the first garments that were hanging on the chair or maybe lying on the floor, neglected to button her jacket or comb her hair, and gone out to pursue her education. Nothing fit them, pants were droopy, jackets hung off the shoulders, shawls were worn anyhow.

Was there ever a time before ours when a girl acted as if she had given no thought to how she looked? Or is it possible that these young women cultivate the bizarre, the untidy, the shapeless, fitless, shabby look? Is this part of their rejection of the world as their parents know it?

Male Chorus Association Plans May 10 Concert

Richard T. Pierce, Poughkeepsie, chairman of the Concert Arrangements Committee has announced that plans are well underway for the 20th Annual Massed Concert of the Mohawk-Hudson Chorus Association on Saturday, May 10 at 8:15 p.m. in the Poughkeepsie IBM Country Club Field House.

Assisting Pierce are Julian Suez, Poughkeepsie co-chairman, Ralph Becker, Fishkill, publicity, Gilbert R. Muhlenbruch, and Louis Tokarz, Wappingers Falls, tickets and Edward Knapp, Poughkeepsie, staging.

The Association, whose theme song is "Brothers, Sing On," was organized in November 1946 with six male chorus groups of the Mohawk-Hudson Valley area. The aims of the association are to study and perform male part songs and to promote mutual understanding, common purposes and good fellowship among member clubs. In this pursuit, the association conducts semi-annual association meetings and an annual massed concert. The present officers are Nelson G. Burhans, Catskill Glee Club, president; Robert S. Sanford, IBM Male Chorus Poughkeepsie, vice president; Charles R. Tailleux, Catskill Glee Club, secretary-treasurer; Alan W. Sparks, Catskill Glee Club, librarian; and John

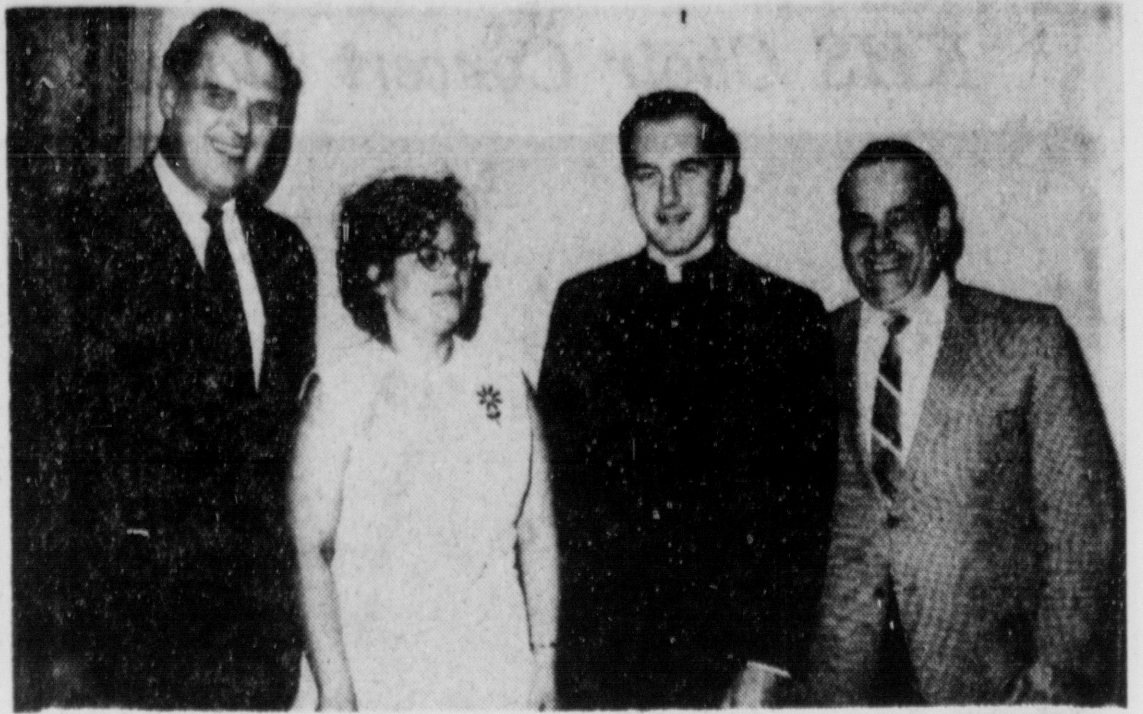

A. McCullough, Mendelssohn Glee Club, historian.

The member clubs are the Amphion Glee Club of Newburgh, directed by Antone Aquino; Catskill Glee Club of Catskill, directed by Donald S. Fellows; Euterpe Glee Club of Poughkeepsie, directed by William T. James; IBM Male Chorus of Poughkeepsie, directed by Curtice C. White Jr.; and Mendelssohn Glee Club of Kingston, directed by Albert G. Hunter Jr.

This year's concert will be the third successive appearance of the U. S. Military Academy Fourth Class Glee Club under the direction of CWO John P. Cochran.

The second segment of the concert will be given by the massed choruses of the Mohawk-Hudson Association joined by the West Pointers and accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Ann Dick, accompanist for the IBM Male Chorus. J. Brian Steeves, the assistant conductor of the Mendelssohn Club will direct "Where E're You Walk," Handel, "Secrets," Kurg and "The Way You Look Tonight," Kern. Finally, Curtice White will direct "I Love Life," Mana-Zucca, "Russian Picnic," Enders, and "Pilgrims Chorus," Wagner.

Tickets may be purchased from any of the member clubs or at the door.

COMMUNION BREAKFAST — The Ladies Society of Santa Maria and the Men's Benevolent Society jointly held their annual communion breakfast Sunday, April 27 at Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston. Among those attending were (L-R) T. Robert Gallo, alderman-at-large for the City of Kingston, guest speaker; Mrs. Anthony Sinagra, president of the Ladies Society of Santa Maria; the Rev. Donald Miniscalco, guest speaker; and Carlo Perry, president of the Men's Benevolent Society. Chairmen for the event were Mrs. Santo Clausi and Frank Polacco. (Powell photo).

Naylor-Bailey Wedding Here

St. Joseph's Church, Kingston was the setting of the wedding of Miss Patricia Gail Naylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Naylor, Lake Katrine, and Colin John Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bailey, Brisbane, Australia, on Sunday, April 27.

The Rev. James Keating officiated at the double ring ceremony. James Sweeney sang traditional wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected an empire style, street-length dress, fashioned with a full back panel, square neckline, and three quarter length sleeves. The shoulder length silk illusion veil was sheared to a matching headpiece and she carried a cascade bouquet of baby white carnations with baby's breath and white satin ribbon.

Miss Sharon Murphy, Ulster Park, served as maid of honor. She wore a pink street-length dress, styled with a square neckline, and long white puffed sleeves, encircled with pink bows. A pink bow served as her hairpiece and she carried baby blue carnations with a blue bow.

Mrs. Gail Naylor, sister-in-law of the bride, Kingston, served as an attendant. Her blue dress was fashioned similarly to that of the maid of honor's and she carried pink carnations with a pink bow.

Richard Downe, Brisbane, Australia, was best man. Lansing Naylor, brother of the bride, Kingston, served as usher.

After the wedding a reception for 50 guests was held at The Alpine.

For her wedding trip to London, England, the bride wore a pink and white dress ensemble with white accessories and a pink baby rose corsage.

The bride is a graduate of St. Joseph's School, Kingston, and Kingston High School. She attended Ulster County Community College.

Her husband is an alumnus of Educated Schools of Brisbane, Australia. He is a member of The Talleggera Surf Club of Brisbane, Australia and is a licensed crane operator.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey will make their home in Brisbane, Australia.

STONE RIDGE LIBRARY — Mrs. Julian Bartle (L) and Mrs. John Thornton, co-chairmen of the Handicraft Booth for the upcoming 34th Annual Country Fair sponsored by the Stone Ridge Library, admire handmade sweaters, and other articles which will be featured on that day. The annual benefit sale will be held on Saturday, June 21 from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. on the library lawn, Route 209. (Wagenfohr photo).

Ferraro to Rochester

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

KINGSTON
Mike Ferraro ended his brief exile from organized baseball Wednesday with the announcement that he would report to the Rochester Red Wings of the International League.

"I'm anxious to play and I will report to Rochester on Friday," he said. "They made me a good offer and I'm happy with it. I know I can get in shape quickly and play third base for the Wings."

Meanwhile, Bob Turner, general manager of the Baltimore Orioles' farm club, expressed delight with Ferraro's decision to join the team.

"We expect him Friday and we are delighted to have Mike with us," Turner said when reached by telephone this morning.

"I think Mike is making the right decision," Turner added. "After all, he was the International League All-Star third baseman in 1968 and that is good enough for us."

Turner said Ferraro's debut in the Red Wing lineup would depend on how quickly he works himself back into playing shape.

"We're aware that Mike hasn't played in several weeks, but he is a young man and should get into shape pretty fast," Turner added.

Ferraro was acquired by the Baltimore Orioles in a five-player deal with the Seattle Pilots with whom he opened the season, but never got into a game despite a .350 spring batting average and a superlative performance in the field.

"We have discussed Mike's case at length," said Turner. "and we can appreciate his disappointment in not getting a chance to play big league ball."

"We're sure Mike will help us and we think he has a real future in our organization," the general manager added.

The Wings' GM said he wouldn't presume to speak for Rochester manager Cal Ripken, but "I know Cal is anxious to get Mike into the lineup as quickly as possible."

At the present time the Wings are mired in the International League cellar with a record of 7 wins and 12 defeats.

In making his announcement,

Gene Mauch's Quick Kick Draws 15-Yard Penalty

(By The Associated Press)

When Gene Mauch punted, it looked as if he was trying out for the National Football League team the city of Montreal hopes to have in the near future.

But the umpires didn't see it that way and penalized the Montreal Expo manager for illegal procedure.

Mauch's quick kick came during the fifth inning of the Expos' 5-3 loss to Atlanta Wednesday night.

Incensed over a balk call against his pitcher, Mike Wegener, Mauch kicked the pitcher's resin bag twice, called for a new pitcher, then picked up the ball and punted it 40 feet into the air.

That's when the umpire threw down the flag and raised the thumb, ejecting the manager from the game and forcing him to walk further than 15 yards to the clubhouse.

Elsewhere in the National League, Houston whipped Philadelphia 6-1, Pittsburgh topped San Diego 2-0, Cincinnati blanked New York 3-0, Los Angeles stopped Chicago 4-2 in 12 innings and San Francisco nipped St. Louis 5-3.

The Expos were leading 3-0 when rookie Wegener ran into trouble in the fifth. After the Braves rallied for two runs, Hank Aaron grounded into a double play, sending Felipe Alou to third. That's when Wegener balked, forcing in the tying run, and that's when Mauch put on his kicking shoe.

"We've had two balks called this year, and he called them both," Mauch said afterward, referring to umpire Stan Landis. "He's always anxious to show how much he knows about the rules. You could call half a dozen balks a day if all you wanted to do was stand around and look for balks."

The Expos didn't have a chance without their kicker, giving up runs to the Braves in the sixth on Alou's single and in the seventh on Bob Aspromonte's double.

Larry Dierker struck out 14, high in the majors this season, as Houston halted Philadelphia's victory string at five. Dierker also triggered a three-run, fifth-inning outburst with a single. The runs came on Jim Wynn's homer.

Bob Veale struck out 13 Padres but needed ninth-inning relief help from Chuck Hartenstein. Veale drove in the Pirates' first run in the second, and Willie Stargell homered in the third.

Those Big, Bad Orioles Don't Scare White Sox

(By United Press International)

The Chicago White Sox aren't too impressed with the American League's "tough" Eastern Division.

Chicago invaded Baltimore, which had ripped through 28 games with 20 victories against Eastern Division foes and was looking like the soundest team in baseball. The Sox promptly beat the Orioles two straight.

The second victory was by a 6-4 score Wednesday night with rookie Bill Melton driving in three runs, two of them with a fifth-inning triple that highlighted a three-run rally.

The Sox sliced Baltimore's lead to just two games over Boston, which edged Seattle, 5-4.

Other Games

In the other American League games, Minnesota

drubbed Cleveland, 10-3, Detroit topped Kansas City, 6-2, California topped New York, 4-2, and Oakland edged Washington, 5-4.

Harmon Killebrew drove in three runs with his sixth and seventh homers and Jim Kaat pitched an eight-hitter to lead the Twins past the Indians. Luis Tiant was tagged with his sixth straight loss.

Jim Price's second hit of the season was his second homer and Mickey Stanley added his third homer as the Tigers snapped a four-game losing streak by beating the Royals. Price was catching because manager Mayo Smith moved Bill Freehan to first and benched Norm Cash.

Makes Wild Throw
George Thomas made a wild throw letting in two runs in the first inning but then doubled in straight loss.

Siena Tossers Trip New Paltz Nine, 5-2

NEW PALTZ walked only two as the Indians posted their seventh win against four losses.

Siena College's senior right hander Billy Gordon scattered seven hits effectively, as the upstarters defeated State College Hawks, 5-2, here Wednesday for their fifth straight baseball victory.

Gordon lost a shutout in the eighth when shortstop Rich Joseph's unloaded a two-run double for the Hawks. Josephs, who started at shortstop and then relieved SU's Rich Landis in the second inning, and Jim Leonardo collected two hits apiece for the losers.

It was the 10th straight defeat for Coach Joe Owen's tossers, who have yet to crash the win column this season.

Gordon struck out eight and

With two outs in the final frame, Al Kavonis and Butch Twiss singled and Dona followed with Siena's third straight hit to give Gordon a three-run cushion.

Nick Miggins also collected two hits for the Indians and Ralph Miccio drove in another run in the sixth.

Rich Landis started for the Hawks but had to leave the game with arm trouble after yielding two runs in the first inning. He was relieved by Josephs, who normally plays shortstop and Josephs turned in a creditable performance.

The Hawks are hoping to snap their losing streak when they host Plattsburgh State in a twinbill Saturday.

Oppose Gun Change

KINGSTON Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County are expected to take a vigorous stand against any changes in the present method of issuing pistol permits in Ulster County when they meet tonight at 8 o'clock.

The proposed change by the Ulster County Legislature, which would process pistol permit applications through County Clerk Albert Spada instead of the Sheriff's department, was the subject of a lively discussion at the federation's directors meeting Tuesday night.

Walter Bartsch of Gardiner, the federation's president, expressed serious concern over the proposed change at the directors meeting.

Bartsch told the directors he was not sure the plan was feasible and not too sure it would create nothing but more red tape and undue delays in the issuance of pistol permits.

Sheriff William B. Martin, who was asked to attend the meeting at the request of president Bartsch, explained in detail the procedures his office uses in the handling, processing and investigation of applications for pistol permits.

Bartsch and other members of the board of directors were highly impressed by the scope and detail of Sheriff Martin's report.

Bartsch told the directors, however, that the federation plans to contact Peter Savago, chairman of the county legislature, to ascertain the reasons why the legislators are proposing to change the long standing practice of issuing permits through the sheriff's department.

All delegates who attend tonight's meeting will be instructed to contact their legislators to find out the exact reason why the change is being proposed.

President Bartsch will make a detailed report to the delegates at tonight's meeting and a solid endorsement of the directors position is expected.

As it now stands, the federation's directors are vigorously opposed to the proposed change, on the grounds that the sheriff's office will still have to process and investigate each applicant and then return the application to the county clerk's office.

This they contend means more red tape and delay and they are determined to oppose it as vigorously as they can.

Aqueduct--Paddy Wagons, Arrests

NEW YORK (AP) — There were helmeted police and paddy wagons and arrests. The scene could have been a strife-torn college campus—but it was a day at the races at Aqueduct.

Racing resumed at the Big A Wednesday in an atmosphere of grumbling and distrust for the first time since horsemen boycotted the entry box April 25 in a dispute over a proposed pension plan for backstretch employees.

And although the dispute still is unresolved and many trainers are still keeping their horses in the barns, a nine-race card was scheduled to be held today.

"There definitely will be racing tomorrow," Thomas Trotter, racing secretary for the New York Racing Association, said shortly after Wednesday's program began two hours late.

The delay was caused by a group of backstretch workers who blocked a gate through which the horses pass on their way from the receiving barn en route to the paddock, and for a time it appeared there would be no racing at all.

About 100 demonstrators stationed themselves in front of the gate shortly before the horses were to go on to the track for the first race which was scheduled to go off at 1:30 p.m.

And for about 1½ hours there they stayed despite pleas by NYRA officials while track police and about 125 city police summoned to the scene stood by.

"No Race Today," a sign carried by one.

Another shouted, "We're not going to leave here. If you arrest one, you arrest all of us."

And shortly before 3 o'clock, when the blockade had dwindled to about 40, that's just about what happened.

With the city police looking on, the track guards moved in and took them individually to an improvised compound. They were later transported to a nearby precinct house and 34 of them were booked on charges of disorderly conduct and harassment. They were later released in their own custody for a hearing May 19.

By the time racing got underway at 3:30 p.m., many in the crowd of 15,036 had left.

Actually the opening race was the second race on the program, the first being canceled because of the delay, wiping out the daily double. The remainder of the nine-horse card was completed.

The boycott started when the New York State Legislature failed to act on a bill that would permit four extra days of racing to pay for a pension fund for backstretch employees such as grooms and hot walkers. The nine racing days that were lost cost the state an estimated $4 million.

Oaks Take ABA Title In 5 Games

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Larry Brown sank two free throws with 14 seconds remaining in overtime Wednesday night to give the Oakland Oaks the American Basketball Association title with a 135-131 win over the Indiana Pacers.

Oakland, which breezed to the Western Division title with a 60-18 record after finishing in last place in 1968, took four out of five games from the Pacers, champs of the Eastern Division.

Indiana pulled from a 12-point deficit in the middle of the third period to deadlock the contest at 122-122 in regulation play when substitute guard Ron Perry hit two of three free throw attempts.

Indiana outscored the Oaks 34-27 in the final period to send the game into overtime. In the extra session, Oakland tallied 13 points to 9 for Indiana.

Lourdes Jayvees Nip Sawyers, 2-1

SAUGERTIES Our Lady of Lourdes Jayvees handed Saugerties Jayvees their eighth loss in 10 games, 2-1, in a well played baseball game here Wednesday.

The Dutchess nine pushed across the winning run in the top of the seventh.

Tom Cole went the distance for the Sawyers, yielding five hits and striking out five. John Bach collected two of the six singles scored by Saugerties and knocked in the only run.

Silva New President

ALLEDALE, N. J. Frank Silva, veteran Pennsylvania sports commentator, was elected president of the Monticello Chapter of the U.S. Harness Writers Association at the annual meeting held here at Brookledge Farms.

He succeeds Mrs. Frances Wallace, reporter for the Goshen, N. Y., Independent Republican.

Other officers named: Ed Glomboski, sports editor Times Herald Record, Middletown, first vice president; Max Brewer, Monticello Raceway publicity director, second vice president; Allen J. Finkelson, Monticello public relations, secretary-treasurer.

Finkelson was also nominated by the chapter as a candidate for national vice president.

The meeting was attended by national secretary, Ed Binneweg of the Long Island Press, and national president William Brown who is also the publicity director at Batavia Downs.

Stuart Archibald, master of Brookledge Farms, and honorary member of the Monticello chapter, was host to the meeting at Brookledge.

The chapter also considered nominations for other national harness awards.

Next meeting of the chapter is scheduled on opening night—May 15—at Monticello Raceway.

Mighty M's Track Ready for Opener

MONTICELLO—With Monticello's Raceway opening on May 15th just around the corner, track superintendent Herb Cauthers is ready and waiting for the horses to face the starting barrier. In fact, the capable trackman is looking beyond the inaugural card and predicts even more records to be set during the season.

"This track is as good as I've ever seen it," says Cauthers who is in his ninth year as superintendent, and "they really are able to buzz over it opening night. I'm not much for predictions but if we have decent weather throughout the season, I'm sure you'll see several of the track records fall."

PINE PLAINS

A putter, commemorating the late Dwight David Eisenhower, will be placed in the Collegiate Golf Hall of Fame in the near future at All American Sports City.

The Pine Plains-Milan based corporation is entering its first full year of operation. A dream in 1966, the Thomas Carvel-sponsored "get away from it all" project has blossomed into a viable community with one of the best golf courses "anywhere in the world" nearing the final stages.

The Eisenhower putter is one of the first artifacts to be put into the Collegiate Golf Hall of Fame on the property, which is not yet ready for the public. The building itself is a small, rectangular white structure with five fluted columns supporting the front overhang.

The purpose of this building is to honor those golfers who started their careers through the facilities of a college or in amateur play. Many of the great names of golf began their career in this way.

There are two separate corporate structures which are responsible for the 740-acre area. One is the All American Country Club, which includes the golf course and appurtenances. The other is sports city estates, which is proceeding with selling lots and building homes.

The guiding theme behind Sports City is one of enjoying all of the great conveniences of the outdoors while giving up none of the luxuries of the best in modern living.

There will be no roughing it. The area abounds in deer and small game for the hunter, and Lake Carvel provides boating, swimming, and the prospects of good fishing. Sailing in the summer, and ice skating and boating in the winter complement the agenda, and plans are in the making to provide a measure of skiing on one of the sharply accented slopes that provide such breath-taking panoramas.

The State of New York and the Pine Plains and Milan town planning boards have given their consent to Phase One of the real estate development project.

In this parcel are 63 lots, all advertised "with a great view", ringing the small hills. Each consists of about three quarter of an acre of land.

Sports City developers expect the primary interest for choice sites will be generated among Metropolitan Area residents, but also expect an influx from the capital district, Poughkeepsie, and Kingston areas.

Other building propositions on the agenda for future development include a 72 unit condominium complex, and a possible chalet type hotel to house weekenders. But of course the entire idea centers around the championship golf course.

"This golf course is the most challenging that I have ever worked on, and will attract major tournaments before too long," prophesied Lee Mori, club pro.

Mori has been around in the country club business. Stints at Wai Lee Country Club in Honolulu, Greenacres CC in Chicago, and Health Crest CC in Los Angeles have given him a perspective.

"Eleven holes were opened on April 25, and the other seven by mid-summer," continued Mori. "We will have to play the course for a while before our judgment can justify the best locations for traps and hazards. Placing the traps is really an art." Two years is the time given for the course to be better perfect.

The regular course is 6,505 yards, 3,245 out and 3,260 back. Modified for championship use, the course is a mammoth 7,030 yards.

"I would venture to say that not a pro on the tour could shoot par 72 on the championship course," said Mori. "It is a rough and challenging course, on rolling hills, and should be one of the best in the world by the time it is finished."

In a practice tournament last autumn, Perry Como won the nine hole course record of 38. "It shouldn't be too hard to beat," joked Mori. Como is among several celebrities who spend time at the place. Singer Vic Damone has a financial interest in the development also.

The public is invited to try out the links for the next two seasons by the management.

Contacting the pro shop, after April 25, for a starting time is one approach. Otherwise "just come on up," said Dave Karpiak, in charge of the course, and arrangements will be made. Electric carts or caddies are available.

"We want to get the people interested in this golf course," said Karpiak, who ran the West Taconic State Parkway, has been the base of operations.

Carvel spends much time at the spot, and has built his own farm on the property. His name is synonymous with soft ice cream for millions of youngsters, for he is the originator of the Carvel stands prevalent in the New York area.

The story of All American Sports City would not be complete without mention of its founder and president, Thomas Carvel.

The hunting lodge on Ferris Road, which leads off the Taconic State Parkway, has been the base of operations.

Introducing a Used Car Guarantee
It Doesn't Come With Every Car

It's a 100% guarantee. Not one of those "we-pay-half-you-pay-half" deals.

And it comes only with used cars that pass the Volkswagen 16 point Safety and performance test.

This is how it works. When we get a car as a trade-in, we give it the inspection. Check it out completely. If it passes, we tune up, tighten, repair or replace everything that needs tuning up, tightening, repairing or replacing.

Then we guarantee it 100% repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1000 miles.

What kind of cars get our guarantee? All kinds. Chevys. Fords. Ramblers. VWs. (We get all kinds of trade-ins for new Volkswagens.)

So, The next time somebody tries to sell you a used car that's "just like new," ask about the guarantee. Then remember us.

No, our used cars aren't "just like new". No used cars could be in better shape, either.

WE WANT 2 "GREEDY" SALESMEN

Due to expansion, we are looking for two men in this area who are not satisfied with what they are presently earning. The men we seek know they're CAPABLE of making a lot more and WANT to make a lot more.

You CAN with us! Most of our new salesmen increase their income 200-400% in their first year. Are you "greedy" enough to want to do this?

We're one of the world's largest individual study organizations and offer you the opportunity to attain financial independence.

We'll supply the leads you need from our multi-million dollar advertising campaign.

No higher commissions are paid in our field. We offer company paid insurance, company paid major medical and the opportunity to climb our management ladder.

So, if you are over 23 and "greedy" phone or write: Mr. Mike Howard, Byram Lake Rd., Mt. Kisco, New York (516) MO 6-6395.

Dear Abby

Watch How You Sit!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law is widowed and spends a lot of time with our family. She's a good soul and we wouldn't want to hurt her for anything.

The problem is that she is about 60 pounds overweight, and she's not very careful about the way she sits. Her dress hikes up and she shows more than people care to see.

Last night our sons (ages 10 and 12) had some friends over, and they were all sitting on the floor supposedly watching TV. Grandma was there in her usual position, and those kids barely took their eyes off Grandma.

She sits "side saddle" at meal time, instead of putting her knees together under the table. She says it's more "comfortable."

We keep telling her to watch how she sits. She'll be careful for a day or two, but then she goes back to her old ways.

How can we effect a permanent cure without hurting her feelings?

DEAR NO NAME: You probably can't. But just keep "reminding her" gently — and often. And by the way, this lady is old and obese, but what excuse can there be for some of those young, slim gals for sitting that way?

DEAR ABBY: We are having a family argument. If a 16-year-old girl has a date with a boy she has never dated before, should the girl be expected to take the boy down in the recreation room to meet her father? Or shouldn't the father come upstairs? This was a formal, and the girl would have had to take the boy thru a rather messy kitchen and down the basement stairs. The mother came up to meet the boy, the father stayed downstairs. Who was right?

THE GIRL: DEAR ABBY: I really wanted to meet the boy, he'd have come upstairs. Perhaps the father was "relaxing" — shoes off, unshaved, engrossed in reading or watching television, in which case, he obviously chose to pass the introduction, which is his privilege. Who's complaining? If the father complains because his daughter didn't bring the boy downstairs, shame on HIM. If the daughter complains because her father didn't come upstairs, shame on HER.

DEAR ABBY: Please be fair and print this for "DISGUSTED": I realize that you are young and glib, but if you actually believe that the army reserve turned down a volunteer because his hair was too long, you had better do some further checking on your armed services.

If this volunteer qualified in every other way, the army would have given him the oath one minute and had him sitting in the barber's chair the next. If you swallow hogwash like this (which you supposedly saw in the newspaper), then I am not so sure we wouldn't be better off if you did pack your bags and move to Australia.

R. C. G. (PROUD NAVY MAN) DEAR ABBY: I would like to reply to the 16-year-old girl who was indignant about a man who wanted to fight for his country but was turned away because his hair was too long. If a man truly wants to "fight for his country," he can always join the regular army. A man's civilian hair style is one

Very truly yours,

A—The white-breasted nuthatch is the only bird with this accomplishment.

WHY WE SAY

HIGH OFFICER: This word for a law keeper comes to us from Latin. It is derived from the words "comes stabili" or Count of the stable. Among his Roman duties was to keep control of the stable and to levy taxes.

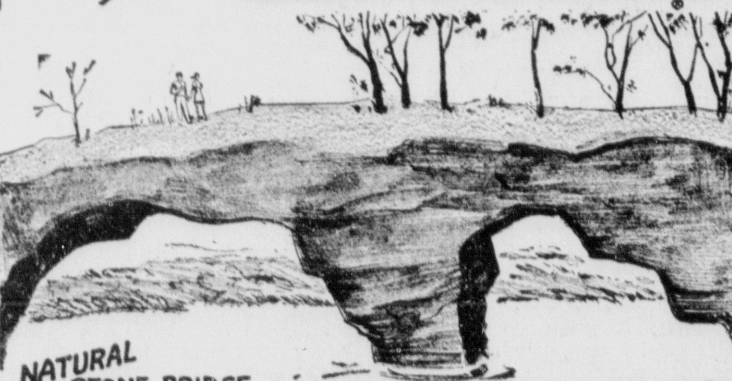

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

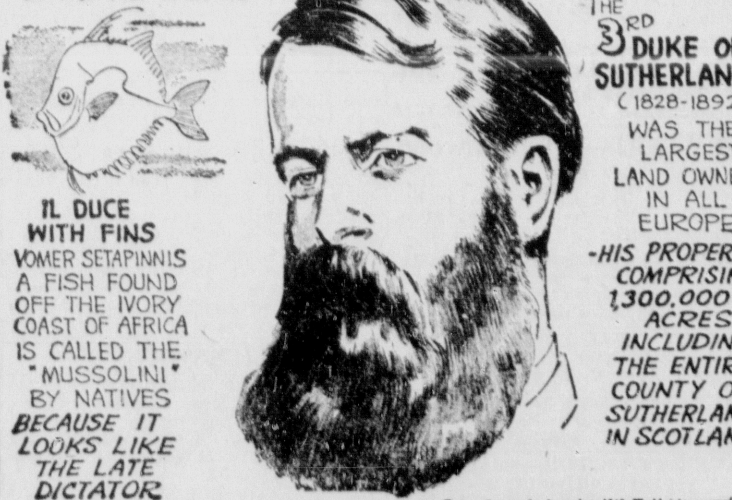

The first machine to convert the energies available in nature into mechanical energy was the water mill, invented by the Greeks about the third century B.C., The World Almanac says. The ancient water mill was the prototype for all other engines that convert running water, wind, coal, petroleum, uranium and sunlight into usable mechanical energy.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

UNPLANNED CHILD: (Q.) Last summer Bill and his parents went on a vacation to Canada. When he came back he got all excited on our first date and his hands started to wander.

Well, I got scared and jumped out of the car. He told me this would never happen again.

But it did happen again, a few weeks ago. And this time I didn't jump out of the car.

Now, I'm afraid I'm pregnant. Bill is going to college next fall. My dad was going to send me, too, and Bill and I had planned to be married in about a year.

We are so in love, I won't have to force him to marry me. I don't know though, whether to give up the child and go to school or marry Bill now and keep the child? What would you do?—A Reader in Washington.

(A.) Because you and Bill love each other, I suggest you marry and keep the baby. Your education is important, but it is not first in importance at the moment. You are fortunate to have love and to be able to mend your fences in a way that society accepts. You should be very thankful for this. Many young women get college educations after marriage and children. You can, too.

YES OR NO? (Q.) I'll be 12 soon and plan to invite all the girls in my class to the party. What do I put on the invitations to ask them to let me know they will or won't be there? Can I tell them to dress for both indoor and outdoor activities?—M. in Winston-Salem, N.C.

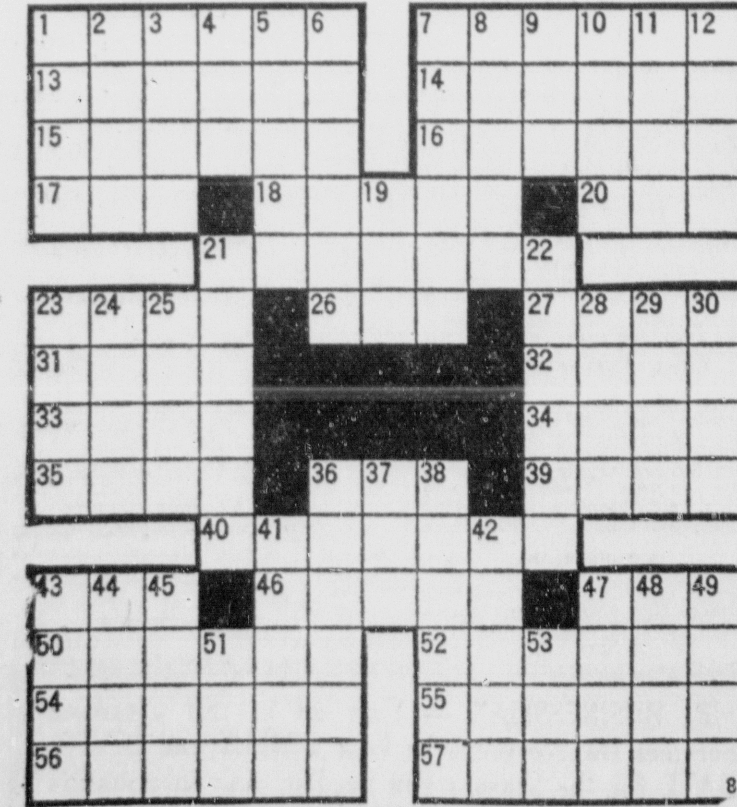

(A.) Write R.S.V.P. at the lower left of your invitations. Then the girls will call to let you know yes or no. If you want to be really casual or if your parents would prefer fewer telephone calls, write R.S.V.P., regrets only. Then they will call only if they can't be at the party.

It is all right to say on the invitation that it is to be an indoor-outdoor party and to ask them to dress accordingly.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Rhinebeck Flexes on Junkers

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK — Much discussion on the enforcement of the Town of Rhinebeck's junk car ordinance, in effect for three years, took the attention of the Town Board at Wednesday night's meeting. Several instances of violation were noted by Homer Staley, from his audience vantage point, and he recommended that owners of property in violation be given summonses and prosecuted if proper action did not result.

Supervisor Rowland Sharpe and the board took the matter under advisement and will discuss complaints and methods of utilizing the two town constables in effecting the enforcement of the ordinance. All agreed that there is little point in passing new ordinances if the old were not enforced. The Rhinebeck-Rhinecliff Boat Club is seeking state funds for dock improvement on the Hudson River, and a meeting with a state official from the Taconic State Park Commission will be held this evening at the site of the boathouse construction.

The Town Board and the Planning Board will meet jointly for discussion on the proposed zoning ordinance at 8 p. m., May 14, at the Town Hall.

It was found that town justices felt they could not draw up the dog ordinance asked for at the last meeting because they felt a conflict of interest. Thus, Sharpe asked for a committee of John Marks, John Forbes, William Allen, and Robert Wolfert to draw up the necessary document and submit it to the town attorney.

A committee of the Rhinecliff Fire Department notified the Town Board that it wishes to meet to discuss an increase in fund allotment for the fire district.

The U.S. Department of Hydrology has announced that it has withdrawn its equipment from the Rhinecliff section of the Hudson River after many years of measuring tides and currents at the spot. Two reasons given were there has been a cut in funds available; many acts of vandalism by area youths have injured the proper functioning of the equipment.

A new road, named Cove Road, may be accepted upon its completion by the Town Board. Developer Robert Mastin will post a $15,000 performance bond in order that property owners can get loans from banks. The road runs close to the Hyde Park border, and is a deadend.

It was announced by Supervisor Sharpe that the five percent cut announced by the governor's office in aid to the town will amount to about $800 per year.

Ellenville OKs Peak Total

ELLENVILLE — A record $3,050,068 school budget was approved Wednesday by voters in the Ellenville District.

There were 887 voters, a drop of nearly 40 per cent from the 1,480 who voted last year. The approval won by a vote of 458 to 402.

Three board members and the library trustee, all incumbents, were reelected without opposition.

A proposition to support the public library's budget received greater votes than the school budget — 404 to 326.

A proposed plan to change board elections from specific seats to majorities was overwhelmingly passed, 515 to 266.

School officials forecast tax rises of $6.76 per $1,000 assigned value to $121.91 in the Town of Wawarsing, another $3.88 to $69.02 in the Town of Rochester and an extra $3.73 to $63.52 in the Town of Mamakating.

Dr. Arnold P. Wolff headed the voting in the election. He received 678 votes. Other incumbents and their votes were Mrs. Florence Kirby 651 and Eugene Houck 641. All were reelected for three-year terms.

Anthony V. Peroco, library trustee, polled 697 votes for another three-year term.

This year's voting was in sharp contrast to elections in previous years when voters rejected budgets.

Rosendale Topics

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

ROSENDALE — The 1969-70 town recreation program and the new regulations governing use of the landfill were the main topics for discussion at the Rosendale Town Board meeting Wednesday night.

Ernest Hopper, director of recreation, submitted a $3,437.50 working budget for what he termed an "expanded recreation program" for the coming year.

Hopper explained, that the program, which has not been completely organized yet, will include both a summer and winter schedule and will be open to young people in the township between the ages of 5 and 18.

The recreation program, one of the largest in the county will include organized and supervised activities such as basketball, arts and crafts, social dancing, baseball and swimming in the summer and skiing in the winter.

Hopper said the changes in this year's program were designed to make it attractive to all young people. He noted that girls will be allowed to participate in all sports and that social dances, dropped from the program last year, will be reinstituted.
